Statements and Arguments In Favor of Local Option
Gathered From All Parts

VOTE TRAFFIC OUT TOMORROW.

The following statements and arguments in favor of local option should be read carefully by the voters before they cast their ballots tomorrow:

MEDINA.

Legitimate Business Has Not Suffered
in That Town Because Saloons
Were Closed.

To whom it may concern:

The saloons in Medina were closed July 26, 1886, under the local option clause of the Dow law. Since then we have had no open saloons and the undersigned agree in stating that no legitimate line of business has suffered from the closing of the saloons, but on the other hand men who before this had no money to pay grocery bills and meat bills, are now able to pay promptly for the necessary supplies. We believe the law is enforced in general as well as other laws. There are those who stand ready to violate the law and sell secretly to confirmed drinkers, but when public sentiment is alert and active this evil is reduced to a minimum, and, above all, our boys and young men are not exposed to the temptations of an open licensed saloon.

FROM GENEVA

What Two Geneva Citizens Say About
the Return of the Saloons.

When the town was dry we had but one policeman and we have two now, which is an additional cost to the town of $40 per month.

The population of the town is changing on account of the shops.

Yours truly,
W. H. DICKERSON.

First—Increased drunkenness very noticeable.

Second—General "letting down" of the tone of the community.

Third—I hear of more "needy" families now than I have since coming here.

Fourth—Our church work begins to pull harder, i. e., there is a certain lawless spirit in the whole community which is not conducive to Christian work.

Anti-Saloon Facts Regarding Minerva,
Stark County,
Ohio.

Anti-saloon facts regarding Minerva,

Stark county, Ohio.—Saloons were voted out in 1888. The tax at that time was 10 mills. It was reduced in six years to 4 8-10 mills. The average rate for six years with no saloons is 6 13-30 mills; for six years preceding with four saloons, 7 1-4 mills. Since saloons were voted out every church has been rebuilt, and dedicated without debt. With saloons 35 per cent of the students in the high school belonged to the churches; now, with no saloons, 90 per cent are in the church. With no saloons a large number of young men have completed a high school course. Since saloons were voted out only one graduate has become an habitual drinker. Ten years ago there was not one dry township in the county; now more than one-half are dry. You can go 20 miles east, 5 miles south, 15 miles west and 13 miles north and find no saloons.

Rev. T. H. Armstrong Writes of the Splendid Condition of Affairs
at East Palestine.

East Palestine, July 18, 1900.

Rev. Clark Crawford, D. D.

Dear Brother—We send you a statement signed by a large number of our business people. You will notice it has the signatures of our mayor and four of the six councilmen. The other two are out of town and could not be seen. At least one of them would have signed, perhaps both. There have been hundreds of dwelling houses built in this time, and yet there is not a vacant house to be found unrented. The school building has been doubled in size and an electric light plant established and other improvements. The merchants report that the people are more prompt in payment of bills, and a general improvement in the homes of many of the poor class of people. There is a general improvement in the moral tone and order of the community. There has been a general growth in all commercial interests in the town until it is well known by the railroad people and commercial travelers, that there is not another town of its size between Pittsburgh and Chicago that affords as good a market for products of all kinds. There have been two new churches built and all are in a prosperous condition.

Faithfully,

T. H. ARMSTRONG.

COUNCILMAN ATCHISON

Speaks of the Benefits East Palestine
Has Derived by Having the Saloons Closed.

The business men and citizens of East Palestine are well pleased with local option, and all statements to the contrary are untrue. They assert that the business of the city has been better since the saloons were banished and all branches of trade have been benefited by the change. In regard to the statements that more liquor is sold in East Palestine now than formerly, Councilman Atchison, who has resided in that village for 25 years, says:

"I have been a resident of East Palestine for 25 years and I know personally that not one-fourth of the liquor is sold in the city under local option as there was when the saloons were permitted to run openly. The city has been better off with no saloons, and never in the history of the town has it been so orderly and law abiding as it is at present. Residents of East Palestine would not go back to the open saloon again as the business men realize what a benefit it has been to them to have the saloons closed.

A GOOD ARGUMENT.

Five Reasons Why the Saloon Should
be Closed.

It is at the bottom of more political corruption than any other single organization or institution.

It inculcates a disrespect for law and thereby endangers the very structure of government by the people.

Its heaviest blows fall upon the innocent, who have no redress against its ravages. It dishonors womanhood and is a crime against childhood.

It is the only business in this country that can be entered upon and successfully conducted without brains, character or capital, and in which there can be no honorable promotion, thus destroying not only the patrons, but the keepers of the dram shops.

It is a leech that sucks the life blood of the nation, a pirate upon the business seas that lives by harpooning all honorable pursuits and callings, the acknowledged assassin of public virtue, the most prolific source of criminality known to society, the monstrous horridum of civilization. It is opposed to everything that is good and in effect favors and promotes everything that is bad. The only argument it offers for the continuation of its worthless life is bribery, intimidation, and misrepresentation backed by the pistol, torch, dirk and bludgeon.

WELLSVILLE.

Read What Wellsville City Council
Promises to the Voters.

"The ministers of Wellsville, in session Friday morning, July 20, have reported their interviews with councilmen, and find that there is no question but that the city council will submit the local option question to a vote of the people; and if East Liverpool goes "dry," the council will probably pass the ordinance direct.

"J. A. THRAPP,

"President.

"EARL D. HOLTZ,
"Secretary."

WE CAN NAME HIM.

He is a Saloonist, a Lawbreaker and a Cheat at the Polls.

He went to a comparative stranger in this city and endeavored to get him to enter into an arrangement to go with him and do repeating, desiring to have him vote at each and every ward in East Liverpool; to be taken to each ward in a barouche and to be well taken care of afterward. Dirty, dirty work, and the anti-saloon league must be on their guard. We can name the saloonist, if necessary.

THEY BRAND HIM AS A FALSIFIER

Good Citizens of East Palestine
Pay Their Respects to M. K.
Zimmerman.

HIS EMPLOYERS ARE WORSE

Than He Is—East Palestine Citizens
Glory In the Success
Of No License.

THE TOWN VERY PROSPEROUS

M. K. Zimmerman, judging him by the denial of Hon. C. C. Baker, is about the right material to be used by the liquor league and saloonkeepers of East Liverpool. It requires a brainy man, however, to make what the sporting element terms a successful liar, and the liquor league, while they secured a fellow who could invent Munchausen yarns with celerity, unfortunately for them got hold of one who talked altogether too much for his employers' interests, and left a trail as broad as that of a grizzly bear; hence his undoing and the discomfiture of the unprincipled men who engaged him. No man who knows Hon. C. C. Baker will for a moment doubt his word, and Hon. C. C. Baker brands M. K. Zimmerman as absolutely lacking in truth telling characteristics.

But here comes strong confirmatory proof of the fact that Zimmerman's word does not amount to a baubee, and the men who are backing him, knowing this, are just as contemptible and as guilty as is their pliant tool, and they should be prosecuted and made to pay for their illegal acts and for their attempt to injure better men by far than themselves, through the medium of foul misrepresentation.

Councilman Straley, of East Palestine, was quoted last night by a local sheet as being in favor of the return of the saloon to East Palestine, and stating that there is just as much liquor sold in that town as there was when the licensed saloon prevailed there. Councilman Straley said to the manager of the News Review:

"That fellow is simply a dirty blackguard, and he must be in the employ of my enemies. There is not an iota of truth in the statement respecting me. He should be punished for his dirty work. It makes me very angry to be thus maligned and I'll take pleasure in telling the sneaking rascal some plain truths when I again inspect his ugly mug. I am warmly in favor of prohibition and against the saloon, and our busy little town has never before been so prosperous as it is at the present time. The saloon gang will never again get control of East Palestine. I know Deputy Sheriff Eph Smith, and I believe that man Zimmerman has lied about him as he has lied about me."

Mr. C. A. Lentz, banker at East Palestine, brands Zimmerman's statements, as appearing in a local paper last night, as absolute misrepresentations. He informs the News Review that he did not say a word to Zimmerman respecting heavy deposits in the bank on the part of the proprietors of the three speakeasies, as that would have been unbusinesslike and unprofessional. He did state to the fellow that he—Lentz—had been in East Palestine for five years, and that East Palestine is very prosperous in every particular under the present prohibitory rule; more so, as per the evidence of old residents, than ever before known in its history.

Mr. John Curry, also quoted in last night's local sheet, says:

"Every word that Zimmerman quoted as coming from me, is simply a plain, unvarnished falsehood."

Deputy Sheriff Eph. Smith, of East Palestine, states that Zimmerman grossly misquoted him, and that the article as appearing in last night's local paper has scarcely a grain of truth in it.

Hon. C. P. Rothwell states that East Palestine is flourishing as never before; that the councilmen and other officials were elected on a square prohibition issue; that business is all O. K. under the present regime; that property valuation has increased wonderfully during the last five years. In a nutshell, that East Palestine, "dry," is a blessed and prosperous town, and that the "wets" will never again gain possession.

In the light of these statements, good citizens of East Liverpool, believers in fair play, can you wonder that clean and honorable men are disgusted at the saloonists and their counselors. You know that the saloon is an unmitigated curse to this city, from every standpoint, and all the lies the liquor element can concoct will only assist in hurrying them to their merited doom. In this special battle, the devil seems to have deserted his own, as they have made awful breaks and blunders and have been detected. Minerva, East Palestine and Columbiana have been relieved of the curse of the saloon and are prospering mightily. God grant that East Liverpool may order the saloons from her borders.

A SALOONIST.

He Openly Threatens a Prominent Man and Vows to Boycott Him.

He is a saloonist, and a very bad one, judging by his threats. He accosted a prominent business man in this city yesterday, and demanded to know how the business man stood in the coming battle—"wet" or "dry." When reply was made "dry" the saloonist resorted to hot threats, asserting that they would see to it that business affairs in the "dry" voter's line would materially decrease. The "dry" voter is a quiet but a courageous man, and he simply expressed his contempt for the fellow and his backers.

Lovers of fair play in East Liverpool, will you permit such a class of men as this saloonist represents to bulldoze you or bulldoze our business men. Men who make such threats are cowardly poltroons, and they cannot injure any man's business.

These same tactics were employed with Emil Gameter, a prominent grocer, of Akron, O., and the true man said:

"My groceries are for sale—not my principles."

And his grocery trade did not suffer an iota. Temperance men are learning the lesson that it pays them to stand by one another, in business as well as elsewhere.

REV. ORCUTT.

It is the only business in this country that can be entered upon and successfully conducted without brains, character or capital, and in which there can be no honorable promotion, thus destroying not only the patrons, but the keepers of the dram shops.

It is a leech that sucks the life blood of the nation, a pirate upon the business seas that lives by harpooning all honorable pursuits and callings, the acknowledged assassin of public virtue, the most prolific source of criminality known to society, the monstrous horror of civilization. It is opposed to everything that is good and in effect favors and promotes everything that is bad. The only argument it offers for the continuation of its worthless life is bribery, intimidation, and misrepresentation backed by the pistol, torch, dirk and bludgeon.

WELLSVILLE.

Read What Wellsville City Council Promises to the Voters.

"The ministers of Wellsville, in session Friday morning, July 20, have reported their interviews with councilmen, and find that there is no question but that the city council will submit the local option question to a vote of the people; and if East Liverpool goes "dry," the council will probably pass the ordinance direct.

"EARL D. HOLTZ,
"Secretary."

WE CAN NAME HIM.

He is a Saloonist, a Lawbreaker and a Cheat at the Polls.

He went to a comparative stranger in this city and endeavored to get him to enter into an arrangement to go with him and do repeating, desiring to have him vote at each and every ward in East Liverpool; to be taken to each ward in a barouche and to be well taken care of afterward. Dirty, dirty work, and the anti-saloon league must be on their guard. We can name the saloonist, if necessary.

THEY BRAND HIM AS A FALSIFIER

Good Citizens of East Palestine Pay Their Respects to M. K. Zimmerman.

HIS EMPLOYERS ARE WORSE

Than He Is—East Palestine Citizens Glory In the Success Of No License.

THE TOWN VERY PROSPEROUS

M. K. Zimmerman, judging him by the denial of Hon. C. C. Baker, is about the right material to be used by the liquor league and saloonkeepers of East Liverpool. It requires a brainy man, however, to make what the sporting element terms a successful liar, and the liquor league, while they secured a fellow who could invent Munchausen yarns with celerity, unfortunately for them got hold of one who talked altogether too much for his employers' interests, and left a trail as broad as that of a grizzly bear; hence his undoing and the discomfiture of the unprincipled men who engaged him. No man who knows Hon. C. C. Baker will for a moment doubt his word, and Hon. C. C. Baker brands M. K. Zimmerman as absolutely lacking in truth telling characteristics.

But here comes strong confirmatory proof of the fact that Zimmerman's word does not amount to a baubee, and the men who are backing him, knowing this, are just as contemptible and as guilty as is their pliant tool, and they should be prosecuted and made to pay for their illegal acts and for their attempt to injure better men by far than themselves, through the medium of foul misrepresentation.

Councilman Straley, of East Palestine, was quoted last night by a local sheet as being in favor of the return of the saloon to East Palestine, and stating that there is just as much liquor sold in that town as there was when the licensed saloon prevailed there. Councilman Straley said to the manager of the News Review:

"That fellow is simply a dirty black-guard, and he must be in the employ of my enemies. There is not an iota of truth in the statement respecting me. He should be punished for his dirty work. It makes me very angry to be thus maligned and I'll take pleasure in telling the sneaking rascal some plain truths when I again inspect his ugly mug. I am warmly in favor of prohibition and against the saloon, and our busy little town has never before been so prosperous as it is at the present time. The saloon gang will never again get control of East Palestine. I know Deputy Sheriff Eph Smith, and I believe that man Zimmerman has lied about him as he has lied about me."

Mr. C. A. Lentz, banker at East Palestine, brands Zimmerman's statements, as appearing in a local paper last night, as absolute misrepresentations. He informs the News Review that he did not say a word to Zimmerman respecting heavy deposits in the bank on the part of the proprietors of the three speakeasies, as that would have been unbusinesslike and unprofessional. He did state to the fellow that he—Lentz—had been in East Palestine for five years, and that East Palestine is very prosperous in every particular under the present prohibitory rule; more so, as per the evidence of old residents, than ever before known in its history.

Mr. John Curry, also quoted in last night's local sheet, says:

"Every word that Zimmerman quoted as coming from me, is simply a plain, unvarnished falsehood."

Deputy Sheriff Eph. Smith, of East Palestine, states that Zimmerman grossly misquoted him, and that the article as appearing in last night's local paper has scarcely a grain of truth in it.

Hon. C. P. Rothwell states that East Palestine is flourishing as never before; that the councilmen and other officials were elected on a square prohibition issue; that business is all O. K. under the present regime; that property valuation has increased wonderfully during the last five years. In a nutshell, that East Palestine, "dry," is a blessed and prosperous town, and that the "wets" will never again gain possession.

In the light of these statements, good citizens of East Liverpool, believers in fair play, can you wonder that clean and honorable men are disgusted at the saloonists and their counselors. You know that the saloon is an unmitigated curse to this city, from every standpoint, and all the lies the liquor element can concoct will only assist in hurrying them to their merited doom. In this special battle, the devil seems to have deserted his own, as they have made awful breaks and blunders and have been detected. Minerva, East Palestine and Columbiana have been relieved of the curse of the saloon and are prospering mightily. God grant that East Liverpool may order the saloons from her borders.

A SALOONIST.

He Openly Threatens a Prominent Man and Vows to Boycott Him.

He is a saloonist, and a very bad one, judging by his threats. He accosted a prominent business man in this city yesterday, and demanded to know how the business man stood in the coming battle—"wet" or "dry." When reply was made "dry" the saloonist resorted to hot threats, asserting that they would see to it that business affairs in the "dry" voter's line would materially decrease. The "dry" voter is a quiet but a courageous man, and he simply expressed his contempt for the fellow and his backers.

Lovers of fair play in East Liverpool, will you permit such a class of men as this saloonist represents to bulldoze you or bulldoze our business men. Men who make such threats are cowardly poltroons, and they cannot injure any man's business.

These same tactics were employed with Emil Gameter, a prominent grocer, of Akron, O., and the true man said:

"My groceries are for sale—not my principles."

And his grocery trade did not suffer an iota. Temperance men are learning the lesson that it pays them to stand by one another, in business as well as elsewhere.

WHAT LIBERTY HAS SALOONIST

Editor News Review—A few years since, during the amendment campaign in Pennsylvania, the venerable Judge Agnew, of Beaver, wrote a series of articles in favor of prohibition which were published in the Pittsburgh Commercial Gazette. One of these was on personal liberty and the rights of society. The republishing of this article, which he so vividly depicts as the inevitable fruit of the liquor traffic, may be helpful in leading some to see that in closing up the saloons true personal rights are protected rather than assailed.

J. C. T.

The right of society to prohibit the manufacture and sale of liquors is often assailed as an attack upon personal liberty. This is a mistake. No one claims the right to compel temperance by law. What a man may drink is for his conscience. The question is between him and his God. But drunkenness is a different matter and affects society.

Put drunkenness before your eyes. See the victim reeling from the bar, perhaps pushed into the street, fallen into the gutter, staggering away to the accident, falling into pits, lying on the railroad track, and in a moment a mass of torn flesh and crushed bones—death.

Look at him in his family—wife and children fleeing before his brutal rage, the knife or pistol in his hand, then the wife of his bosom bleeding, dying at his feet. Again see him on a bed of sickness fighting the devils of the brain, mania, delirium, death.

Look at its public aspect, not confined by town or county lines, but spreading over the whole state. What a scene of devastation and ruin, which despoils labor, glutts prisons and hospitals, engulfs taxes, impoverishes families, breaks up homes, sends the occupants to alms houses, and carries thousands to untimely graves.

It violates the very constitution of the state, destroying the God-given rights of men.

Does it not destroy liberty? Answer, courts of justice, prisons and asylums.

Does it not destroy property? The destruction has no measure, but the wages of labor, the earnings of industry, the savings of economy, and the inheritance of wealth, all, all engulfed in the drunkard's ruin.

Does it not destroy happiness? Who can tell the woe, the sorrow, the pain, the broken hearts despoiled by drink?

Reputation? Who can return it to the victim of folly, vice and crime? Lost in the whirlpool of drink.

Drunkenness is therefore a great public wrong, involving life, health, prosperity, peace, property, morals and the general welfare. What is its corrective? The police power, recognized by the supreme court of the United States. Said Justice McLean: "The acknowledged police power of a state extends often to the destruction of property. A nuisance may be abated, everything prejudicial to the health and morals of a city may be removed."

Said Chief Justice Taney: "If a state deems the retail traffic in ardent spirits injurious to its citizens, and calculated to produce idleness, vice

A PECULIAR PIECE OF WORK

Hon. C. C. Baker, at present the president of the board of education at Alliance, Ohio, is a personal friend and comrade of the manager of the News Review. When we read the remarks attributed to him last night, as they appeared in a local paper in this town, under the head of "communicated," we at once pronounced them false, knowing C. C. Baker as we do, and determined to interview the gentleman at his home at Alliance. We did so this morning, through a proper medium, and received the following reply, after reading the article to him which appeared in the local paper above mentioned:

"There is not a word of truth in the paragraph quoted. M. K. Zimmerman called on me on Monday last and attempted to interview me. I asked him how you were and as to the stand you were taking on the battle of saloon or no saloon. He stated that you were on the side of local option and left me under the impression that he was here in your interest and that he was still connected with your paper, and I did not know that you had ceased to employ him. I told Mr. Zimmerman that I was not here at the time that local option held sway, that I knew nothing about the matter from personal knowledge and that I did not desire to be quoted. I further told Mr. Zimmerman that there were plenty of old residents here whom he could interview respecting the matter, men who knew all about it; but he intimated that his time was limited and that he could not interview many people. Let me reiterate my statement:

"The article which appeared in the paper you mention, and which is quoted as being my experience, is a plain LIE, manufactured from the whole cloth.

"Respectfully,

"C. C. BAKER.

Alliance, O., July 18, 1900."

In the light of this prompt and unequivocal branding of the lie against Hon. C. C. Baker, have we not the right to say that the liquor league and their miserable tools will resort to any and every means, honorable or dishonorable, for the accomplishment of their vile and unholy purposes?

This lie is a shameful and outrageous one, calculated to seriously injure Hon. C. C. Baker, and the man or men who concocted it should be made pay a heavy penalty. The proper place for creatures who resort to such infamy and trickery is behind prison bars. This act on their part is a fair sample of their method of procedure everywhere. The saloon is and always has been a criminal maker, and the men who manufacture criminals will themselves become criminals on the slightest pretext, when their criminal action will best accomplish their foul and unholy purpose, and when they believe that they stand an even chance of escaping punishment at the hands of an outraged law.

HON. C. C. BAKER SPEAKS OUT

M. K. Zimmerman Created the Impression That He Represented the News Review.

A PECULIAR PIECE OF WORK

Hon. C. C. Baker, at present the president of the board of education at Alliance, Ohio, is a personal friend and comrade of the manager of the News Review. When we read the remarks attributed to him last night, as they appeared in a local paper in this town, under the head of "communicated," we at once pronounced them false, knowing C. C. Baker as we do, and determined to interview the gentleman at his home at Alliance. We did so this morning, through a proper medium, and received the following reply, after reading the article to him which appeared in the local paper above mentioned:

"There is not a word of truth in the paragraph quoted. M. K. Zimmerman called on me on Monday last and attempted to interview me. I asked him how you were and as to the stand you were taking on the battle of saloon or no saloon. He stated that you were on the side of local option and left me under the impression that he was here in your interest and that he was still connected with your paper, and I did not know that you had ceased to employ him. I told Mr. Zimmerman that I was not here at the time that local option held sway, that I knew nothing about the matter from personal knowledge and that I did not desire to be quoted. I further told Mr. Zimmerman that there were plenty of old residents here whom he could interview respecting the matter, men who knew all about it; but he intimated that his time was limited and that he could not interview many people. Let me reiterate my statement:

"The article which appeared in the paper you mention, and which is quoted as being my experience, is a plain LIE, manufactured from the whole cloth.

"Respectfully,

"C. C. BAKER.

In the light of this prompt and unequivocal branding of the lie against Hon. C. C. Baker, have we not the right to say that the liquor league and their miserable tools will resort to any and every means, honorable or dishonorable, for the accomplishment of their vile and unholy purposes?

This lie is a shameful and outrageous one, calculated to seriously injure Hon. C. C. Baker, and the man or men who concocted it should be made pay a heavy penalty. The proper place for creatures who resort to such infamy and trickery is behind prison bars. This act on their part is a fair sample of their method of procedure everywhere. The saloon is and always has been a criminal maker, and the men who manufacture criminals will themselves become criminals on the slightest pretext, when their criminal action will best accomplish their foul and unholy purpose, and when they believe that they stand an even chance of escaping punishment at the hands of an outraged law.

MINERVA.

Rev. Gorrell Speaks of the Splendid Prosperity of That City.

Rev. Gorrell, pastor of the Christian church, was seen this morning and made the following statement:

"Having lived in Minerva for over three years I believe I am in a position to know what I am talking about. I arrived in Minerva just after the vote had been taken resulting in the closing of the saloons. The saloon people were selling off their stock in hand and had reduced the price of beer to two glasses for five cents, and that day the streets of Minerva looked like hog slops—men in a beastly state of intoxication could be seen on every hand.

"Upon being denied to do business in Minerva, the saloon men went over into Brown township, Carroll county, and into Paris township, Stark county, just on the outskirts, and started the lowest kind of 'joints,' and while the drinking and carousing continued at these places the town was very orderly.

"In 1890 the saloons were voted out of Brown township by the good people of that community, and in 1895 the same action was taken in Paris township, on the opposite side of the town. My honest belief is that the direct result of this is that Minerva has today two banks, where formerly there was but one, two mills instead of one; the taxes have not increased, have their own water and electric lighting systems, street paving better and more of it than East Liverpool can boast of, no paupers within the city limits, and drunkenness and lawlessness in the street is a thing unknown. This is a plain statement of the facts and anyone saying to the contrary falsifies.

"Within the past 10 years three attempts have been made to make a wet town of Minerva, on each of these occasions the better element in that town carried the day by increased majorities."

Harry Palmer Desires That You Shall Read This Very Carefully.

SALOONKEEPERS ARE VERY LOW

The Cowardly Creatures Can Find Nothing Too Mean For Them To Do.

WE BID THEM OPEN DEFIANCE

It has come to my knowledge, from reliable authority, that one prominent saloonist of East Liverpool has recently said:

"We will get even with Cap. Palmer; we will fix him."

We treated the threat with the contempt it so richly deserved. We have nothing but pity for such poor, base creatures as this speech portrays.

But now comes the story that the liquor league and saloonists will try to hurt the dry, or anti-saloon movement through a personal attack on my character and record as a soldier. Hence this article. I didn't care a baubee for their attacks on me, as I simply despise creatures who will resort to such tactics, and term them a disgrace and a blot on our common manhood. But I do care when they aim to hurt the anti-saloon movement through me; a movement which I believe is made sacred by the Master's blessing; a movement desiring to save your sons and husbands from a drunkard's fate and a drunkard's hell. Read this:

"We will spring a story on Palmer when it is too late for him to reply, and thus secure votes for our side by making the people disgusted with a cause which has such a cowardly party connected with it. We will assert that Sergeant Palmer was dishonorably discharged from the Tenth regiment, at Manila, by Colonel Hawkins, on the charge of cowardice and drunkenness."

Citizens of East Liverpool, do you know of any other business on the face of this fair earth which will deal in such devilish work as these saloonists delight in. Witness their infamous lie against my friend and comrade, the Hon. C. C. Baker, of Alliance, Ohio, the miserable tool they made use of openly boasting, in the presence of reliable witnesses, that he receives $20 a week and expenses for doing their dirty work; and the fellow has lied in the same manner against other men he quoted, and we can prove it.

The poor, trashy, cowardly, mongrel crew intended to reach after Sergeant Palmer and brand him as a coward and a drunkard. This article will take the wind out of their sails and extract the venom from their serpentine fangs; but they are just as guilty as if they had made use of their hellish plot.

And now, for the benefit of clean men, men who avoid moral lepers and

cowardly saloonists, and not in a spirit of boastfulness or foolish egotism, we make the following statement:

"I, Sergeant Harry Palmer, late color bearer of the dear old Tenth regiment, Pa. infantry, U. S. volunteers, have in my possession, ready to exhibit to you, good citizens; first—an honorable discharge from the great civil war, after three years and seven months of service, as a high private. Second, an honorable discharge, by the secretary of war, from the Tenth regiment, at Manila, with warm words of commendation inscribed on the back thereof by the pen of my gallant comrade, Colonel A. L. Hawkins, who has answered the last Roll Call, in a camp where there are no saloons. Third, a medal of honor for service in the Philippines, on which medal is inscribed "for heroic service." Fourth, a recommendation to Governor Hastings, urging the governor to appoint Sergeant Harry Palmer to a commission, and signed by Colonel A. L. Hawkins, he using such flattering words and phrases as I will not make use of here.

All this, good and clean citizens, for the sake of the movement against the saloon, as I despise a boaster.

HARRY PALMER,

Late Color Bearer Tenth Pa. Infantry, U. S. Volunteers.

It don't pay to have one citizen in the penitentiary, or county jail because another citizen sells him liquor.

It don't pay to have one citizen in the asylum for the insane or idiotic because another citizen sold him liquor.

It don't pay to have 50 workmen clothed in poor and ragged clothing to have one saloon keeper dressed in fine apparel and flush with money.

It don't pay to have our smart, active, intelligent boys transformed into criminals to enable the saloonist to lead an easy life by selling them liquor.

It don't pay to have our workingmen and their families live on poor and insufficient food in order that the saloon keeper and his family may live on the fat of the land.

It don't pay to have multitudes of homes blasted, ruined, defiled and turned into a hell of discord and misery in order that one wholesale dealer may amass a large fortune.

It don't pay for the citizens of East Liverpool to give the saloonist for a tax of $350 a year, one-half of which goes into our city treasury, the permission to engage in a business that demoralizes society, impoverishes many homes and robs the legitimate business of the city of more than 20 times the tax it pays.

It don't pay to permit that which is wrong for any price it may pay.

This is the Class of Men You Desire to Run Saloons—They Know Their Business.

From a gentleman who was present at a meeting of the State Liquor league in Worthwein's hall, Columbus, O., a few years ago, we have received what he wrote in his note book from the utterances of one of the delegates at that meeting.

After having discussed matters in the interest of the saloon business and its successes, he wound up with the following statement:

"It will appear from these facts, gentlemen, that the success of our business is dependent largely upon the creation of appetite for drink. Men who drink liquor, like others, will die, and if there is no appetite created, our counters will be empty, as will be our coffers. Our children will go hungry, or we must change our business to that of some other more remunerative.

"The open field for the creation of this appetite is among the boys. After men have grown and their habits are formed they rarely ever change in this regard. It will be needful, therefore, that missionary work be done among the boys, and I make the suggestion, gentlemen, that nickels expended in treats to the boys now, will return in dollars to your tills after the appetite has been formed. Above all things, create appetite!"

Harry Palmer Desires That You Shall Read This Very Carefully.

SALOONKEEPERS ARE VERY LOW

The Cowardly Creatures Can Find Nothing Too Mean For Them To Do.

WE BID THEM OPEN DEFIANCE

It has come to my knowledge, from reliable authority, that one prominent saloonist of East Liverpool has recently said:

We treated the threat with the contempt it so richly deserved. We have nothing but pity for such poor, base creatures as this speech portrays.

But now comes the story that the liquor league and saloonists will try to hurt the dry, or anti-saloon movement through a personal attack on my character and record as a soldier. Hence this article. I didn't care a baubee for their attacks on me, as I simply despise creatures who will resort to such tactics, and term them a disgrace and a blot on our common manhood. But I do care when they aim to hurt the anti-saloon movement through me; a movement which I believe is made sacred by the Master's blessing; a movement desiring to save your sons and husbands from a drunkard's fate and a drunkard's hell. Read this:

"We will spring a story on Palmer when it is too late for him to reply, and thus secure votes for our side by making the people disgusted with a cause which has such a cowardly party connected with it. We will assert that Sergeant Palmer was dishonorably discharged from the Tenth regiment, at Manila, by Colonel Hawkins, on the charge of cowardice and drunkenness."

Citizens of East Liverpool, do you know of any other business on the face of this fair earth which will deal in such devilish work as these saloonists delight in. Witness their infamous lie against my friend and comrade, the Hon. C. C. Baker, of Alliance, Ohio, the miserable tool they made use of openly boasting, in the presence of reliable witnesses, that he receives $20 a week and expenses for doing their dirty work; and the fellow has lied in the same manner against other men he quoted, and we can prove it.

The poor, trashy, cowardly, mongrel crew intended to reach after Sergeant Palmer and brand him as a coward and a drunkard. This article will take the wind out of their sails and extract the venom from their serpentine fangs; but they are just as guilty as if they had made use of their hellish plot.

And now, for the benefit of clean men, men who avoid moral lepers and

cowardly saloonists, and not in a spirit of boastfulness or foolish egotism, we make the following statement:

"I, Sergeant Harry Palmer, late color bearer of the dear old Tenth regiment, Pa. Infantry, U. S. volunteers, have in my possession, ready to exhibit to you, good citizens; first—an honorable discharge from the great civil war, after three years and seven months of service, as a high private. Second, an honorable discharge, by the secretary of war, from the Tenth regiment, at Manila, with warm words of commendation inscribed on the back thereof by the pen of my gallant comrade, Colonel A. L. Hawkins, who has answered the last Roll Call, in a camp where there are no saloons. Third, a medal of honor for service in the Philippines, on which medal is inscribed "for heroic service." Fourth, a recommendation to Governor Hastings, urging the governor to appoint Sergeant Harry Palmer to a commission, and signed by Colonel A. L. Hawkins, he using such flattering words and phrases as I will not make use of here.

All this, good and clean citizens, for the sake of the movement against the saloon, as I despise a boaster.

HARRY PALMER,
Late Color Bearer Tenth Pa. Infantry,
U. S. Volunteers.

IT DON'T PAY.

The Only One it Pays is the Saloon Keeper and Liquor Dealers.

It don't pay to hang one citizen because another citizen sells him liquor.

It don't pay to have one citizen in the penitentiary, or county jail because another citizen sells him liquor.

It don't pay to have one citizen in the asylum for the insane or idiotic because another citizen sold him liquor.

It don't pay to have 50 workmen clothed in poor and ragged clothing to have one saloon keeper dressed in fine apparel and flush with money.

It don't pay to have our smart, active, intelligent boys transformed into criminals to enable the saloonist to lead an easy life by selling them liquor.

It don't pay to have our workingmen and their families live on poor and insufficient food in order that the saloon keeper and his family may live on the fat of the land.

It don't pay to have multitudes of homes blasted, ruined, defiled and turned into a hell of discord and misery in order that one wholesale dealer may amass a large fortune.

It don't pay for the citizens of East Liverpool to give the saloonist for a tax of $350 a year, one-half of which goes into our city treasury, the permission to engage in a business that demoralizes society, impoverishes many homes and robs the legitimate business of the city of more than 20 times the tax it pays.

It don't pay to permit that which is wrong for any price it may pay.

A WHIFF FROM HELL.

This is the Class of Men You Desire to Run Saloons—They Know Their Business.

From a gentleman who was present at a meeting of the State Liquor league in Worthwein's hall, Columbus, O., a few years ago, we have received what he wrote in his note book from the utterances of one of the delegates at that meeting.

After having discussed matters in the interest of the saloon business and its successes, he wound up with the following statement:

"It will appear from these facts, gentlemen, that the success of our business is dependent largely upon the creation of appetite for drink. Men who drink liquor, like others, will die, and if there is no appetite created, our counters will be empty, as will be our coffers. Our children will go hungry, or we must change our business to that of some other more remunerative.

"The open field for the creation of this appetite is among the boys. After men have grown and their habits are formed they rarely ever change in this regard. It will be needful, therefore, that missionary work be done among the boys, and I make the suggestion, gentlemen, that nickels expended in treats to the boys now, will return in dollars to your tills after the appetite has been formed. Above all things, create appetite!"

The gentleman is a state officer of Ohio, well known to the officers of the Anti-Liquor league. His name is held for good and sufficient reasons.

FRIDAY, JULY 20, 1900.

OCCUPIED.

One hundred saloons went out of business in Atlanta, Georgia, by order of the people. The buildings were occupied in short order by legitimate and honorable business ventures.

TAXATION.

The clean and sober citizens are compelled to pay heavy taxes on account of the existence of the saloon and criminals manufactured by the saloon. Forbearance has ceased to be a virtue. The saloon must go. It is an outrage on civilization and decency.

GOD'S SOLDIERS.

They are to be found battling on the side of the right and the true on every occasion. God's soldiers are always banded against evil; the saloon is a glaring, awful, cold-blooded, calculating evil; hence, God's soldiers are always opposed to the saloon and liquor traffic. There is no neutral ground in this battle; you must be for or against the Master as He has so declared: "Ye cannot serve God and mammon." The anti-saloon man pleads with you in the name of God and our common humanity. The saloonist and his backers and apologists plead with you in the name of the devil and of gold. Which side will you take, that of God or of mammon?

ZIMMERMAN'S OATH.

Those who know M. K. Zimmerman intimately and who also know Hon. C. C. Baker intimately, will take their choice as to whom they will believe. Mr. Baker pronounces the article which appeared in a local sheet on last Monday, quoted as coming from his lips, as a foul falsehood, a lie manufactured from the whole cloth. We personally prefer to believe Comrade Baker, and we know him intimately. We also know M. K. Zimmerman intimately.

Later—Since Councilman Straley, of East Palestine, brands Zimmerman as a flagrant falsifier, and Banker C. A. Lentz, of the same place, does the same, and states that Zimmerman grossly misrepresented him, the oath of M. K. Zimmerman has a peculiar mystery surrounding it. Mr. Straley and Mr. Lentz state that East Palestine was never in better financial condition, and Councilman Straley laughs at Zimmerman's funny story about East Palestine voting against prohibition.

Later—Mr. John Curry and Deputy Sheriff Eph. Smith, both residents of East Palestine, and quoted in last night's local sheet by Zimmerman, informs the manager of the News Review that the fellow lied about them all the way through. Comment is unnecessary.

W. B. Wheeler, state counsel for the anti-saloon league, who took such a prominent part in the battle in the legislature over the famous Clark bill, will speak at the First Presbyterian church tonight. Don't fail to hear him. He will shoot some startling fire rockets into the camp of the saloonists and convince you that their statements are untenable and best classed as misty fabrications.

SEVERAL INDICTMENTS.

Saloon Keepers Want Plenty and Don't Care How Their Victims Live.

Say, people of our grand republic, the liquor interests of this country demand our attention. A question of vital importance to the brewers and saloon keepers must be considered. They have spent millions of dollars in establishing and operating breweries, building store houses and erecting and furnishing saloons like gilded palaces and providing these with all kinds of amusement and entertainments, which will appeal to the appetites of the youth. In fact they have done and are doing everything under the sun to entice a sufficient number of us to go and consume the product of their breweries.

We cannot comprehend the enormous sums they have expended and are compelled to expend to keep up their business. Nor are we able to comprehend the enormous output of their mills, which must be drunk, or they will fail. Gentlemen, there is only one way to solve this problem. This product must be consumed, and as they are increasing the amount of the product the number of consumers must be increased and those consuming must consume more. Now, remember, none of them are suffering for the necessities of life. Few if any of their children cry for bread and suffer because of the cold. None of their wives have to wash for a living. None of their families suffer the pain and misery and woe that the families of many of the consumers suffer. No, but they live well. Many of them live in palatial houses and have their men servants and maid servants and travel during the summer, and in fact have all the conveniences and pleasures earth can afford. But is a question of money with them and nothing else must interfere, not even the laws of their fellow men, and they always do a cash business.

They cannot care if a husband goes home drunk and beats his wife and children. They cannot care if he sells the furniture of the home and shoes and clothes of the children, they must have the money. They cannot care if the children do go half-starved, half-naked and half-frozen. They cannot care if the babe cries itself to sleep trying to feed from the half-starved mother's breast. They cannot care if the mother has to support the family at the wash tub and the father steals part of her hard earned money, they must have it and have their liquor consumed. They cannot care if the husband sells that which kind and sympathetic friends have given the wife and children and throws the money over to them. They cannot care if the husband pleads with the merchant to have pity upon his wife and family and then goes and trades the gift for the product of their mills. They can't care if the merchant and grocer and butcher do trust him, while he does a cash business with the saloon keeper. This liquor they must have consumed and money they must have.

They cannot care if even the wife becomes a consumer and forsakes the fruit of her own body. They cannot care if the mother of the home is enticed away and should come to love the haunts of vice more than the child to which she gave birth. They cannot care if the home is destroyed and in its place is misery and woe; yet, a hell on earth. They must have money, and even that which would furnish medicine for the dying wife or the little babe as it calls for food and is passing away, preyed upon by the awful disease inherited. Oh, but that we might let them have this medicine, if only to enable them to die easier; but no, money must flow into the tills of those who claim our support.

They cannot care if the son and brother is allured into the dens of iniquity, breaking the mother's heart, she who nestled him in her bosom in his innocence. They cannot care if he reels in the street and wallows in the mire. They cannot care if he loses friends, character, reputation, position and even murders his friends and takes his own life. They cannot care if the daughter and sister, the very pride of the home in the bloom of purity, is allured into dens fitted for destruction of body and soul—a life of most degrading shame—a life which beggars description, for it is spent among the hissing demons of hell, where she will die by her own hand to end her earthly misery, her body buried in a pauper's grave if buried at all.

In spite of all this, even multiplied a thousand fold, they call upon us for support, they plead with us to let them live.

The old are dying, the young we must teach to become consumers.

Wives have you a husband to give to the cause; husbands have you a wife to give?

Fathers and mothers have you a son or daughter you can let them have? They are dependent upon us. Shall we heed their cry or the cry of the widow and fatherless?

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE CITY

FRIDAY, JULY 20, 1900.

OCCUPIED.

One hundred saloons went out of business in Atlanta, Georgia, by order of the people. The buildings were occupied in short order by legitimate and honorable business ventures.

TAXATION.

The clean and sober citizens are compelled to pay heavy taxes on account of the existence of the saloon and criminals manufactured by the saloon. Forbearance has ceased to be a virtue. The saloon must go. It is an outrage on civilization and decency.

GOD'S SOLDIERS.

They are to be found battling on the side of the right and the true on every occasion. God's soldiers are always banded against evil; the saloon is a glaring, awful, cold-blooded, calculating evil; hence, God's soldiers are always opposed to the saloon and liquor traffic. There is no neutral ground in this battle; you must be for or against the Master as He has so declared: "Ye cannot serve God and mammon." The anti-saloon man pleads with you in the name of God and our common humanity. The saloonist and his backers and apologists plead with you in the name of the devil and of gold. Which side will you take, that of God or of mammon?

ZIMERMAN'S OATH.

Those who know M. K. Zimmerman intimately and who also know Hon. C. C. Baker intimately, will take their choice as to whom they will believe. Mr. Baker pronounces the article which appeared in a local sheet on last Monday, quoted as coming from his lips, as a foul falsehood, a lie manufactured from the whole cloth. We personally prefer to believe Comrade Baker, and we know him intimately. We also know M. K. Zimmerman intimately.

Later—Since Councilman Straley, of East Palestine, brands Zimmerman as a flagrant falsifier, and Banker C. A. Lentz, of the same place, does the same, and states that Zimmerman grossly misrepresented him, the oath of M. K. Zimmerman has a peculiar mystery surrounding it. Mr. Straley and Mr. Lentz state that East Palestine was never in better financial condition, and Councilman Straley laughs at Zimmerman's funny story about East Palestine voting against prohibition.

Later—Mr. John Curry and Deputy Sheriff Eph. Smith, both residents of East Palestine, and quoted in last night's local sheet by Zimmerman, informs the manager of the News Review that the fellow lied about them all the way through. Comment is unnecessary.

W. B. Wheeler, state counsel for the anti-saloon league, who took such a prominent part in the battle in the legislature over the famous Clark bill, will speak at the First Presbyterian church tonight. Don't fail to hear him. He will shoot some startling fire rockets into the camp of the saloonists and convince you that their statements are untenable and best classed as misty fabrications.

SEVERAL INDICTMENTS.

Saloon Keepers Want Plenty and Don't Care How Their Victims Live.

Say, people of our grand republic, the liquor interests of this country demand our attention. A question of vital importance to the brewers and saloon keepers must be considered. They have spent millions of dollars in establishing and operating breweries, building store houses and erecting and furnishing saloons like gilded palaces and providing these with all kinds of amusement and entertainments, which will appeal to the appetites of the youth. In fact they have done and are doing everything under the sun to entice a sufficient number of us to go and consume the product of their breweries.

We cannot comprehend the enormous sums they have expended and are compelled to expend to keep up their business. Nor are we able to comprehend the enormous output of their mills, which must be drunk, or they will fail. Gentlemen, there is only one way to solve this problem. This product must be consumed, and as they are increasing the amount of the product the number of consumers must be increased and those consuming must consume more. Now, remember, none of them are suffering for the necessities of life. Few if any of their children cry for bread and suffer because of the cold. None of their wives have to wash for a living. None of their families suffer the pain and misery and woe that the families of many of the consumers suffer. No, but they live well. Many of them live in palatial houses and have their men servants and maid servants and travel during the summer, and in fact have all the conveniences and pleasures earth can afford. But is a question of money with them and nothing else must interfere, not even the laws of their fellow men, and they always do a cash business.

They cannot care if a husband goes home drunk and beats his wife and children. They cannot care if he sells the furniture of the home and shoes and clothes of the children, they must have the money. They cannot care if the children do go half-starved, half-naked and half-frozen. They cannot care if the babe cries itself to sleep trying to feed from the half-starved mother's breast. They cannot care if the mother has to support the family at the wash tub and the father steals part of her hard earned money, they must have it and have their liquor consumed. They cannot care if the husband sells that which kind and sympathetic friends have given the wife and children and throws the money over to them. They cannot care if the husband pleads with the merchant to have pity upon his wife and family and then goes and trades the gift for the product of their mills. They can't care if the merchant and grocer and butcher do trust him, while he does a cash business with the saloon keeper. This liquor they must have consumed and money they must have.

They cannot care if even the wife becomes a consumer and forsakes the fruit of her own body. They cannot care if the mother of the home is enticed away and should come to love the haunts of vice more than the child to which she gave birth. They cannot care if the home is destroyed and in its place is misery and woe; yet, a hell on earth. They must have money, and even that which would furnish medicine for the dying wife or the little babe as it calls for food and is passing away, preyed upon by the awful disease inherited. Oh, but that we might let them have this medicine, if only to enable them to die easier; but no, money must flow into the tills of those who claim our support.

They cannot care if the son and brother is allured into the dens of iniquity, breaking the mother's heart, she who nestled him in her bosom in his innocence. They cannot care if he reels in the street and wallows in the mire. They cannot care if he loses friends, character, reputation, position and even murders his friends and takes his own life. They cannot care if the daughter and sister, the very pride of the home in the bloom of purity, is allured into dens fitted for destruction of body and soul—a life of most degrading shame—a life which beggars description, for it is spent among the hissing demons of hell, where she will die by her own hand to end her earthly misery, her body buried in a pauper's grave if buried at all.

In spite of all this, even multiplied a thousand fold, they call upon us for support, they plead with us to let them live.

The old are dying, the young we must teach to become consumers.

Wives have you a husband to give to the cause; husbands have you a wife to give?

Fathers and mothers have you a son or daughter you can let them have? They are dependent upon us. Shall we heed their cry or the cry of the widow and fatherless?

SAME OLD CHESTNUT.

The Writer Who Says Prohibition Does Not Prohibit in Kansas Had Better Investigate.

Editor News Review—In a certain paper in this city some one who does not sign his name brings out the old chestnut that prohibition does not prohibit in Kansas. For his edification I want to recommend the reading of an article published in the Chicago Record some time ago. It was written by William E. Curtis, who made a special investigation of the working of the prohibitory law in Kansas. He said:

"Prohibition is not a dead letter, nor a failure by any means, and I am told by almost everybody I ask that any proposition to repeal the law would be defeated by an overwhelming vote."

If the writer in our local paper wants to prove to the people of East Liverpool that the Kansas prohibitory law is a failure would it not be well for him, or some of his friends to go there and try the experiment of opening a saloon. That he may not be ignorant of what will happen, however, let me inform him of a habit they have out there. About the first of last April the Kansas supreme court announced a decision affirming the sentences passed upon half a dozen violators of the prohibitory law in Iola and Humboldt by Judge Stillwell. Joseph Langley and Charles Groth had to go to the Allen county jail for 600 days each, pay fines of $1,000 and give bonds in the sum of $500 each to guarantee their good behavior for two years thereafter. John Whittick went to jail. One Nagley had to pay $700 and be confined 315 days. Frank Nimrick had to pay $600 and be confined 270 days. D. Whittick had to spend 120 days in jail and pay $400.

There are several men in this city, of whom the writer is one, who personally know something of the success of prohibition in Kansas. I visited a friend in Topeka for several days. Having heard through our liquor friends in Ohio that whisky was sold freely in that city, I sought to find it, but in vain. One evening I overheard a conversation between two men, some of whose words would not be appropriate for publication. One of them said it was well nigh impossible to get a drink in Topeka; the other replied that it was easier to go to Kansas City, 50 miles away, and get it. These men did not know that anyone heard what they said. After a thorough investigation I came away with the certain knowledge that prohibition does prohibit in Topeka. But while there I remembered the other charge of the liquor people (a direct contradiction of the one I have referred to), namely that "prohibition has killed Topeka." My friend took me in his carriage and drove me to a fine street in the northern part of the city. There he stopped and pointed to a vast number of splendid homes. He said that in that section no house was allowed to be built that cost under a certain sum. Finally he asked: "Crawford, how many of those elegant houses stood there when I came to this city about two and a half years ago?" I said: "I do not know." He replied: "Just three; Knox's yonder, and two others." He then drove out by the capitol to a high point in the western part of the city. There he stopped and pointed out a still larger number of new homes. He said: "Crawford, you see all those houses yonder are new. How many of them do you suppose were standing there when I came to Topeka two and a half years ago? None. You have heard in Ohio that prohibition was killing Topeka. I have shown you how it is killing it. We can stand that kind of killing."

Mr. Editor, prohibition does kill a municipality from a saloonist's standpoint, but not from the standpoint of the people's interest.

SAME OLD CHESTNUT.

The Writer Who Says Prohibition Does Not Prohibit in Kansas Had Better Investigate.

Editor News Review—In a certain paper in this city some one who does not sign his name brings out the old chestnut that prohibition does not prohibit in Kansas. For his edification I want to recommend the reading of an article published in the Chicago Record some time ago. It was written by William E. Curtis, who made a special investigation of the working of the prohibitory law in Kansas. He said:

"Prohibition is not a dead letter, nor a failure by any means, and I am told by almost everybody I ask that any proposition to repeal the law would be defeated by an overwhelming vote."

If the writer in our local paper wants to prove to the people of East Liverpool that the Kansas prohibitory law is a failure would it not be well for him, or some of his friends to go there and try the experiment of opening a saloon. That he may not be ignorant of what will happen, however, let me inform him of a habit they have out there. About the first of last April the Kansas supreme court announced a decision affirming the sentences passed upon half a dozen violators of the prohibitory law in Iowa and Humboldt by Judge Stillwell. Joseph Langley and Charles Groth had to go to the Allen county jail for 600 days each, pay fines of $1,000 and give bonds in the sum of $500 each to guarantee their good behavior for two years thereafter. John Whittick went to jail. One Nagley had to pay $700 and be confined 315 days. Frank Nimerick had to pay $600 and be confined 270 days. D. Whittick had to spend 120 days in jail and pay $400.

There are several men in this city, of whom the writer is one, who personally know something of the success of prohibition in Kansas. I visited a friend in Topeka for several days. Having heard through our liquor friends in Ohio that whisky was sold freely in that city, I sought to find it, but in vain. One evening I overheard a conversation between two men, some of whose words would not be appropriate for publication. One of them said it was well nigh impossible to get a drink in Topeka; the other replied that it was easier to go to Kansas City, 50 miles away, and get it. These men did not know that anyone heard what they said. After a thorough investigation I came away with the certain knowledge that prohibition does prohibit in Topeka. But while there I remembered the other charge of the liquor people (a direct contradiction of the one I have referred to), namely that "prohibition has killed Topeka." My friend took me in his carriage and drove me to a fine street in the northern part of the city. There he stopped and pointed to a vast number of splendid homes. He said that in that section no house was allowed to be built that cost under a certain sum. Finally he asked: "Crawford, how many of those elegant houses stood there when I came to this city about two and a half years ago?" I said: "I do not know." He replied: "Just three; Knox's yonder, and two others." He then drove out by the capitol to a high point in the western part of the city. There he stopped and pointed out a still larger number of new homes. He said: "Crawford, you see all those houses yonder are new. How many of them do you suppose were standing there when I came to Topeka two and a half years ago? None. You have heard in Ohio that prohibition was killing Topeka. I have shown you how it is killing it. We can stand that kind of killing."

Mr. Editor, prohibition does kill a municipality from a saloonist's standpoint, but not from the standpoint of the people's interest.

A STATEMENT FROM BOTH MUNICIPALITIES.

The following statements from the citizens of Colum-biana and East Palestine speak volumes in favor of local option:

For seven years prior to the spring
of '96 local option prevailed in Colum-biana. About this date the ordinance was repealed and for three years open saloons flourished. In the spring of '99
the saloons were again closed and remain so at this time. The people of the town, therefore, have had a good opportunity to study the pros and cons
of the two systems, and ought to be able to speak intelligently concerning the comparative benefits and disadvantages.

While we regret to acknowledge that our toppers and tipplers secure liquor,
either by visiting neighboring towns or having it smuggled to them here, we also gladly recognize what we believe to be great advantages derived from local option.

In the way of public improvement,
our town is surpassing some others of the same class, which depend for their development, to a considerable extent,
upon the saloon revenue. We have no
occasion to increase the rate of taxation to meet our expenses as compared with the years of saloon domination.

The managers of our manufacturing plants plainly declare that their employes are more reliable, lose fewer days and do better work under local option. Some of our groccymen testify to better patronage and more prompt settlements. A drunken man is a rare sight and a street brawl unknown. Even during days of unusual crowds the best conduct prevails and that without the presence of the marshal.

This phase of our municipal life is constantly attracting the attention and awakening complimentary remarks
from visitors.

These, to say nothing of the moral advantages, are so marked as contrasted with the opposite, which we have experienced from open saloons,
that we willingly subscribe our names
in recognition of their truthfulness and benefits.

EAST PALESTINE.

East Palestine, O., July 17, 1900.
To Whom it May Concern:

We, the undersigned residents of East Palestine, Ohio, for the purpose
of eliminating from the minds of persons who have formed a false idea as to the losing of business within our village on account of having a local option ordinance, wish to say that we
not only resided within this village
prior to the passage of said ordinance
but have resided here during all of the time since, and can truthfully say, and that without fear of successful contradiction, that at no period within the history of our village have the business men secured a more lucrative trade than they have within the last five years. To the best of our knowledge no business has left the town and gone to another on account of there being no saloons within our borders,
statements of persons to the contrary
notwithstanding.

We wish to say further in support of a prohibitory ordinance that young people are not compelled to come in to contact with the saloon element
that congregates around them; that
a lady can walk around the streets
and not be insulted with talk that emanates from the saloon; that in every way from a moral standpoint our village has bettered its condition on account of the action of our council in the passage of our prohibitory ordinance.

MINERVA.

This Glorious Stark County Town
Makes Liquor Advocates
Weary.

We have personally visited Minerva
and made minute investigation of its commercial and private life as a "dry"
town. It is a living, breathing, active witness again the un-American saloon.
It is one of the best business towns
in Ohio. The merchants do a good and a safe business. The streets are kept in first-class condition. The sidewalks are better than those of East Liverpool. There is no brawling and fighting and cursing upon the thoroughfares. It is a model town. The stuff which has been appearing in a local sheet, at so much per line, condemns Minerva in the same manner
as it does other dry towns, and on
about the same manufactured and lying testimony, secured and made up by a man who has so far forgot his manhood as to become a tool in the hands of the liquor league and saloon
men. We have been close on this fellow's trail, and can prove, by indisputable authority, that his statements
are a mass of falsehood. The following from the Minerva News Kodak, a live, clean paper, published in a live,
clean town, by a live, clean, fearless man, speaks volumes in favor of the
"dry" town:

"We venture the assertion that there is four times more cash business
to the volume of business done in Minerva than in any "wet" town around.
And it is equally as evident that as much as twice the volume of legiti-mate business is done here as in any
"wet" town of like size. One of our prominent merchants remarked Saturday that he had not lost a dollar
in bad accounts the past year.—Miner-
va News Kodak, May 28."

This is the uniform testimony that comes to us from the "dry" towns of the state. It is not an infrequent thing that town officers and prominent citizens, who have opposed making towns "dry" for business reasons confess to us and our friends that they were mistaken, and give in their adherence to the prohibition program.
Of all the ineffable rot that was ever faked out by saloon falsifiers, the most silly and baseless is that saloons help
the legitimate business of any place.

TO THE VOTERS.

Men Connected With the Liquor
League Making False Representations.

Men were going about this city yesterday, claiming to be identified with the executive committee of the anti-saloon league, asking citizen voters
as to how they would vote on Saturday next. The fellows were frauds, evidently in the employ of the liquor
league, as there were no canvassers
out for the anti-saloon league yesterday; and when they were out, they had absolute instructions to ask no
such questions, as such a method
would be considered an impertinence
by right thinking men, men of principle and honor.

EAST PALESTINE.

East Palestine, O., July 17, 1900.
To Whom It May Concern:

We, the undersigned residents of East Palestine, Ohio, for the purpose
of eliminating from the minds of persons who have formed a false idea as
to the losing of business within our village on account of having a local option ordinance, wish to say that we
not only resided within this village
prior to the passage of said ordinance
but have resided here during all of the time since, and can truthfully say, and
that without fear of successful contradiction, that at no period within the history of our village have the business men secured a more lucrative
trade than they have within the last five years. To the best of our knowledge no business has left the town and
gone to another on account of there
being no saloons within our borders,
statements of persons to the contrary
notwithstanding.

We wish to say further in support of
a prohibitory ordinance that young people are not compelled to come in
to contact with the saloon element
that congregates around them; that
a lady can walk around the streets
and not be insulted with talk that emanates from the saloon; that in every way from a moral standpoint our village has bettered its condition on account of the action of our council in the passage of our prohibitory ordinance.

MINERVA.

This Glorious Stark County Town
Makes Liquor Advocates
Weary.

We have personally visited Minerva
and made minute investigation of its commercial and private life as a "dry"
town. It is a living, breathing, active witness again the un-American saloon.
It is one of the best business towns
in Ohio. The merchants do a good and a safe business. The streets are kept in first-class condition. The sidewalks are better than those of East Liverpool. There is no brawling and fighting and cursing upon the thoroughfares. It is a model town. The stuff which has been appearing in a local sheet, at so much per line, condemns Minerva in the same manner
as it does other dry towns, and on
about the same manufactured and lying testimony, secured and made up
by a man who has so far forgot his
manhood as to become a tool in the hands of the liquor league and saloon
men. We have been close on this fellow's trail, and can prove, by indis-
putable authority, that his statements
are a mass of falsehood. The following from the Minerva News Kodak, a
live, clean paper, published in a live,
clean town, by a live, clean, fearless
man, speaks volumes in favor of the
"dry" town:

"We venture the assertion that
there is four times more cash business
to the volume of business done in Mi-
nerva than in any "wet" town around.
And it is equally as evident that as much as twice the volume of legiti-mate business is done here as in any
"wet" town of like size. One of our prominent merchants remarked Saturday that he had not lost a dollar
in bad accounts the past year.—Miner-
va News Kodak, May 28."

This is the uniform testimony that comes to us from the "dry" towns of the state. It is not an infrequent
thing that town officers and prominent citizens, who have opposed making
towns "dry" for business reasons confess to us and our friends that they were mistaken, and give in their adherence to the prohibition program.
Of all the ineffable rot that was ever
faked out by saloon falsifiers, the most silly and baseless is that saloons help
the legitimate business of any place.

Men were going about this city yes-

evidently in the employ of the liquor

day; and when they were out, they
had absolute instructions to ask no
such questions, as such a method
would be considered an impertinence
by right thinking men, men of principle and honor.

RATE OF TAXATION WAS NOT INCREASED

Read What the Business Men and Manufacturers In
the No Saloon Town of Columbiana Say
About Local Option.

DRUNKEN BRAWLS ARE UNKNOWN

East Palestine Citizens Also Voice the Same Sentiment and Are Well Pleased With a Dry Town.

A STATEMENT FROM BOTH MUNICIPALITIES.

The following statements from the citizens of Colum-biana and East Palestine speak volumes in favor of local option:

For seven years prior to the spring of '96 local option prevailed in Colum-biana. About this date the ordinance was repealed and for three years open saloons flourished. In the spring of '99 the saloons were again closed and remain so at this time. The people of the town, therefore, have had a good opportunity to study the pros and cons of the two systems, and ought to be able to speak intelligently concerning the comparative benefits and disadvantages.

While we regret to acknowledge that our toppers and tipplers secure liquor, either by visiting neighboring towns or having it smuggled to them here, we also gladly recognize what we believe to be great advantages derived from local option.

In the way of public improvement, our town is surpassing some others of the same class, which depend for their development, to a considerable extent, upon the saloon revenue. We have no occasion to increase the rate of taxation to meet our expenses as compared with the years of saloon domination.

The managers of our manufacturing plants plainly declare that their employes are more reliable, lose fewer days and do better work under local option. Some of our grocerymen testify to better patronage and more prompt settlements. A drunken man is a rare sight and a street brawl unknown. Even during days of unusual crowds the best conduct prevails and that without the presence of the marshal.

This phase of our municipal life is constantly attracting the attention and awakening complimentary remarks from visitors.

These, to say nothing of the moral advantages, are so marked as contrasted with the opposite, which we have experienced from open saloons, that we willingly subscribe our names in recognition of their truthfulness and benefits.

BUILD HOMES NOT SALOONS

Fallacy of Liquor Dealers Argument In Regard to Speakeasies Is Shown.

IF LAW CAN BE EVADED

And Speakeasies Run No Man Will Pay Dow Tax to Run an Open Saloon.

PROSPEROUS PROHIBITION CITIES

Editor News Review—I want to say a word about those speakeasies that a trembling contemporary sees rising like a specter out of the ashes of the vanquished saloon.

Let this pious sheet be calm. A speakeasy can exist where there are open saloons as well as where there are no saloons. If a man can evade the law and run a speakeasy he will not pay a Dow tax.

Our thirsty friends, our moral monitors thoughtlessly impale themselves on their own arguments. They argue thus:

First—Where there are no saloons there will be more liquor drank than where there are saloons.

Second—Driving out the saloon we drive out the business of the town, for it will go where liquor can be had.

Both of these cannot be correct. The two propositions kill each other.

Is more liquor drank where there is no saloon? Who is working for the saloon? The liquor dealer? No. Manufacturers and wholesalers are known to spend thousands of dollars to maintain the saloon in a town. What fools they must be. If your competitor would go away from home far enough his eyes would witness the benefits to Minerva and East Palestine in comparison with saloon ridden towns.

Minerva with no saloons and a much less population buys and sells more goods than Carrollton with its saloons, though it is a county seat.

Let us ask ourselves what we are, anyway. Are we men or pigs?

If pigs, then let us slobber and swill and slobber and swear and tumble into the gutter. If men, then let us act like men. I have never seen a town where the saloon was banished that not only were business conditions improved, but there was an improvement of all that was worthy of the best manhood. Homes were more appreciated and beautified. Education, the library, art and music were more patronized. The churches, the hospital and other religious and charitable institutions were more flourishing. East Liverpool and Wellsville spends enough every year for liquor to build and equip as fine a hospital as there is in the state.

Let us get our minds on something higher than a beer mug. Let us cultivate a more rational taste than the taste for debauchery and we will be glad to strike from ourselves the bondage of this death.

The proof of the pudding is the eating. Some of these poor fellows who never saw a town without a saloon think a town could not exist without saloons. Not so. Take for instance Washington, Pa.

For 35 years it has had no saloon. Has it diminished? Has it died out? Fifteen years ago it had 6,000 population. This year's census finds it with 21,000.

Look at its long avenues of fine, beautiful homes; look at its fine public buildings and city improvements. See its splendid school facilities and its prosperous churches and its refined and intelligent population. Is it a dead business town? Though only 30 miles from the large cities of Wheeling and Pittsburg, see its great stores and its large number of prosperous banking houses. During the hard times, when some towns were establishing soup houses and sending out wagons to beg from the farmers, Washington had no hard times.

The sound of the builders' hammer was heard on all sides, and artisans and tradesmen were prosperous and happy.

Why carpenters and plasterers and painters there are able to build themselves homes costing $8,000 to $10,000.

Let us close up these drinking holes. Let us build our homes and not the saloon. Every interest of decency favors no saloon. Appetite and avarice alone clamor for the saloon.

Let us be men, and let not appetite enslave us, nor avarice beguile us. We have tried the saloon long enough, let us try something better.

CIVES.

HERE YOU ARE?

Catch On, Workingmen and Toilers— This Knocks the Licensed Saloon Dizzy.

Give yourselves a fair show in the race of life, men of East Liverpool. Don't let the saloonists make a monkey of you. They rob you and then laugh at you. Do the laughing for yourself, and let the wife and the babies have the money you throw away in the saloon. Let the saloonist, distiller and brewer make an honest and honorable living, the same as you do, and don't you build houses for him at your expense and at the expense and sorrow of your wife and little ones. Read the following and see the difference in a city under saloon rule and after the saloon was driven out:

"The city of Cambridge, Mass., celebrated on May 1 its 10 years freedom from the liquor traffic. There were children's festivals and public meetings, and in all religious services held a prominent place. A writer in the New York Independent gives the following facts as to the results of the city's policy: 'For 10 years, up to 1886, Cambridge was under license, half of the time under general law and half of the time under local option. Here is a chance to compare 10 years of license with 10 years of no license. Let us see what the figures are: From 1876 to 1886 the valuation of Cambridge dropped from $62,000,000 in round numbers to $59,000,000. In the next 10 years it rose to $83,000,000. Here is a loss of $3,000,000 in the license decade, and a gain of $24,000,000 in the no-license decade. If this fact stood alone it would be very significant; but it does not stand alone. In the 10 license years the average annual gain in population was 1,182; in the 10 no-license years it has been 2,195. In the first decade there were 151 new houses built annually; the average the second decade has been 332. The city gets annually in taxes on the increased valuation of the city under no-license three or four times as much as it would get from license fees, if it called the saloon back.'

"Here are further results as to saving bank deposits: 'During the 10 years of license the Cambridge savings bank made a net gain of $155,333 each year in deposits. During the 10 no-license years the annual net gain has been $366,654. This gain, as an analysis of the returns shows, has been chiefly in small deposits of $50 or less. In East Cambridge, the principal manufacturing section of the city, the deposits last year were four times as large as in the last year of license.'"

BUILD HOMES NOT SALOONS

Fallacy of Liquor Dealers Argument In Regard to Speakeasies Is Shown.

IF LAW CAN BE EVADED

And Speakeasies Run No Man Will Pay Dow Tax to Run an Open Saloon.

PROSPEROUS PROHIBITION CITIES

Editor News Review—I want to say a word about those speakeasies that a trembling contemporary sees rising like a specter out of the ashes of the vanquished saloon.

Let this pious sheet be calm. A speakeasy can exist where there are open saloons as well as where there are no saloons. If a man can evade the law and run a speakeasy he will not pay a Dow tax.

Our thirsty friends, our moral monitors thoughtlessly impale themselves on their own arguments. They argue thus:

First—Where there are no saloons there will be more liquor drank than where there are saloons.

Second—Driving out the saloon we drive out the business of the town, for it will go where liquor can be had.

Both of these cannot be correct. The two propositions kill each other.

Is more liquor drank where there is no saloon? Who is working for the saloon? The liquor dealer? No.

Manufacturers and wholesalers are known to spend thousands of dollars to maintain the saloon in a town. What fools they must be. If your competitor would go away from home far enough his eyes would witness the benefits to Minerva and East Palestine in comparison with saloon ridden towns.

Minerva with no saloons and a much less population buys and sells more goods than Carrollton with its saloons, though it is a county seat.

Let us ask ourselves what we are, anyway. Are we men or pigs?

If pigs, then let us slop and swill and slobber and swear and tumble into the gutter. If men, then let us act like men. I have never seen a town where the saloon was banished that not only were business conditions improved, but there was an improvement of all that was worthy of the best manhood. Homes were more appreciated and beautified. Education, the library, art and music were more patronized.

The churches, the hospital and other religious and charitable institutions were more flourishing. East Liverpool and Wellsville spends enough every year for liquor to build and equip as fine a hospital as there is in the state.

Let us get our minds on something higher than a beer mug. Let us cultivate a more rational taste than the taste for debauchery and we will be glad to strike from ourselves the bondage of this death.

The proof of the pudding is the eating. Some of these poor fellows who never saw a town without a saloon think a town could not exist without saloons. Not so. Take for instance Washington, Pa.

For 35 years it has had no saloon. Has it diminished? Has it died out? Fifteen years ago it had 6,000 population. This year's census finds it with 21,000.

Look at its long avenues of fine, beautiful homes; look at its fine public buildings and city improvements. See its splendid school facilities and its prosperous churches and its refined and intelligent population. Is it a dead business town? Though only 30 miles from the large cities of Wheeling and Pittsburg, see its great stores and its large number of prosperous banking houses. During the hard times, when some towns were establishing soup houses and sending out wagons to beg from the farmers, Washington had no hard times.

The sound of the builders' hammer was heard on all sides, and artisans and tradesmen were prosperous and happy.

Why carpenters and plasterers and painters there are able to build themselves homes costing $8,000 to $10,000.

Let us close up these drinking holes. Let us build our homes and not the saloon. Every interest of decency favors no saloon. Appetite and avarice alone clamor for the saloon.

Let us be men, and let not appetite enslave us, nor avarice beguile us. We have tried the saloon long enough, let us try something better.

CIVES.

HERE YOU ARE?

Catch On, Workingmen and Toilers—This Knocks the Licensed Saloon Dizzy.

Give yourselves a fair show in the race of life, men of East Liverpool. Don't let the saloonists make a monkey of you. They rob you and then laugh at you. Do the laughing for yourself, and let the wife and the babies have the money you throw away in the saloon. Let the saloonist, distiller and brewer make an honest and honorable living, the same as you do, and don't you build houses for him at your expense and at the expense and sorrow of your wife and little ones. Read the following and see the difference in a city under saloon rule and after the saloon was driven out:

"The city of Cambridge, Mass., celebrated on May 1 its 10 years freedom from the liquor traffic. There were children's festivals and public meetings, and in all religious services held a prominent place. A writer in the New York Independent gives the following facts as to the results of the city's policy: 'For 10 years, up to 1886, Cambridge was under license, half of the time under general law and half of the time under local option. Here is a chance to compare 10 years of license with 10 years of no license. Let us see what the figures are: From 1876 to 1886 the valuation of Cambridge dropped from $62,000,000 in round numbers to $59,000,000. In the next 10 years it rose to $83,000,000. Here is a loss of $3,000,000 in the license decade, and a gain of $24,000,000 in the no-license decade. If this fact stood alone it would be very significant; but it does not stand alone. In the 10 license years the average annual gain in population was 1,182; in the 10 no-license years it has been 2,195. In the first decade there were 151 new houses built annually; the average the second decade has been 332. The city gets annually in taxes on the increased valuation of the city under no-license three or four times as much as it would get from license fees, if it called the saloon back.'

"Here are further results as to saving bank deposits: 'During the 10 years of license the Cambridge savings bank made a net gain of $155,333 each year in deposits. During the 10 no-license years the annual net gain has been $366,654. This gain, as an analysis of the returns shows, has been chiefly in small deposits of $50 or less. In East Cambridge, the principal manufacturing section of the city, the deposits last year were four times as large as in the last year of license.'

THE EVENING NEWS REVIEW.

16TH YEAR. NO. 35.

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., FRIDAY, JULY 20, 1900.

TWO CENTS

THE SALOON DON'T BENEFIT ANY CITY

Statements and Arguments In Favor of Local Option
Gathered From All Parts of the State.

VOTE TRAFFIC OUT TOMORROW.

The following statements and arguments in favor of local option should be read carefully by the voters before they cast their ballots tomorrow:

MEDINA.

Legitimate Business Has Not Suffered
in That Town Because Saloons
Were Closed.

To whom it may concern:

The saloons in Medina were closed July 26, 1886, under the local option clause of the Dow law. Since then we have had no open saloons and the undersigned agree in stating that no legitimate line of business has suffered from the closing of the saloons, but on the other hand men who before this had no money to pay grocery bills and meat bills, are now able to pay promptly for the necessary supplies. We believe the law is enforced in general as well as other laws. There are those who stand ready to violate the law and sell secretly to confirmed drinkers, but when public sentiment is alert and active this evil is reduced to a minimum, and, above all, our boys and young men are not exposed to the temptations of an open licensed saloon.

The A. I. Root Co., per A. I. Root, manufacturers and publishers; Geo. W. Webber, foundrymen; A. T. Spitzer, president Savings Deposit company; James Newton, grocer; G. W. Lewis, attorney-at-law; T. Feman, Gray & Rose, paper store; the Phoenix Dry Goods Company; C. D. Dightman, prosecuting attorney; W. H. Sipher, grocer; C. J. Warner and son, dry goods.

FROM GENEVA

What Two Geneva Citizens Say About
the Return of the Saloons.

When the town was dry we had but one policeman and we have two now, which is an additional cost to the town of $40 per month.

The population of the town is changing on account of the shops.

Yours truly,

W. H. DICKERSON.

First—Increase of drunkenness very noticeable.

Second—General "letting down" of the tone of the community.

Third—I hear of more "needy" families now than I have since coming here.

Fourth—Our church work begins to pull harder, i. e., there is a certain lawless spirit in the whole community which is not conducive to Christian work.

REV. LINDSAY.

STILL THEY COME.

Anti-Saloon Facts Regarding Minerva,
Stark County,
Ohio.

Anti-saloon facts regarding Minerva,

Stark county, Ohio.—Saloons were voted out in 1888. The tax at that time was 10 mills. It was reduced in six years to 4 8-10 mills. The average rate for six years with no saloons is 6 13-30 mills; for six years preceding with four saloons, 7 1-4 mills. Since saloons were voted out every church has been rebuilt, and dedicated without debt. With saloons 35 per cent of the students in the high school belonged to the churches; now, with no saloons, 90 per cent are in the church. With no saloons a large number of young men have completed a high school course. Since saloons were voted out only one graduate has become an habitual drinker. Ten years ago there was not one dry township in the county; now more than one-half are dry. You can go 20 miles east, 5 miles south, 15 miles west and 13 miles north and find no saloons.

Rev. T. H. Armstrong Writes of the Splendid Condition of Affairs
at East Palestine.

East Palestine, July 18, 1900.

Rev. Clark Crawford, D. D.

Dear Brother—We send you a statement signed by a large number of our business people. You will notice it has the signatures of our mayor and four of the six councilmen. The other two are out of town and could not be seen. At least one of them would have signed, perhaps both. There have been hundreds of dwelling houses built in this time, and yet there is not a vacant house to be found unrented. The school building has been doubled in size and an electric light plant established and other improvements. The merchants report that the people are more prompt in payment of bills, and a general improvement in the homes of many of the poor class of people. There is a general improvement in the moral tone and order of the community. There has been a general growth in all commercial interests in the town until it is well known by the railroad people and commercial travelers, that there is not another town of its size between Pittsburgh and Chicago that affords as good a market for products of all kinds. There have been two new churches built and all are in a prosperous condition.

Faithfully,

T. H. ARMSTRONG.

COUNCILMAN ATCHISON

Speaks of the Benefits East Palestine
Has Derived by Having the Saloons Closed.

The business men and citizens of East Palestine are well pleased with local option, and all statements to the contrary are untrue. They assert that the business of the city has been better since the saloons were banished and all branches of trade have been benefited by the change. In regard to the statements that more liquor is sold in East Palestine now than formerly, Councilman Atchison, who has resided in that village for 25 years, says:

"I have been a resident of East Palestine for 25 years and I know personally that not one-fourth of the liquor is sold in the city under local option as there was when the saloons were permitted to run openly. The city has been better off with no saloons, and never in the history of the town has it been so orderly and law abiding as it is at present. Residents of East Palestine would not go back to the open saloon again as the business men realize what a benefit it has been to them to have the saloons closed.

A GOOD ARGUMENT.

Five Reasons Why the Saloon Should
be Closed.

It is at the bottom of more political corruption than any other single organization or institution.

It inculcates a disrespect for law and thereby endangers the very structure of government by the people.

Its heaviest blows fall upon the innocent, who have no redress against its ravages. It dishonors womanhood and is a crime against childhood.

It is the only business in this country that can be entered upon and successfully conducted without brains, character or capital, and in which there can be no honorable promotion, thus destroying not only the patrons, but the keepers of the dram shops.

It is a leech that sucks the life blood of the nation, a pirate upon the business seas that lives by harpooning all honorable pursuits and callings, the acknowledged assassin of public virtue, the most prolific source of criminality known to society, the monstrous horrendum of civilization. It is opposed to everything that is good and in effect favors and promotes everything that is bad. The only argument it offers for the continuation of its worthless life is bribery, intimidation, and misrepresentation backed by the pistol, torch, dirk and bludgeon.

WELLSVILLE.

Read What Wellsville City Council
Voters.

"The ministers of Wellsville, in session Friday morning, July 20, have reported their interviews with councilmen, and find that there is no question but that the city council will submit the local option question to a vote of the people; and if East Liverpool goes "dry," the council will probably pass the ordinance direct.

"J. A. THRAPP,
"President.

"EARL D. HOLTZ,
"Secretary."

WE CAN NAME HIM.

He is a Saloonist, a Lawbreaker and
a Cheat at the Polls.

He went to a comparative stranger in this city and endeavored to get him to enter into an arrangement to go with him and do repeating, desiring to have him vote at each and every ward in East Liverpool; to be taken to each ward in a barouche and to be well taken care of afterward. Dirty, dirty work, and the anti-saloon league must be on their guard. We can name the saloonist, if necessary.

THEY BRAND HIM AS A FALSIFIER

Good Citizens of East Palestine
Pay Their Respects to M. K.
Zimmerman.

HIS EMPLOYERS ARE WORSE

Than He Is—East Palestine Citizens
Glory In the Success
Of No License.

THE TOWN VERY PROSPEROUS

M. K. Zimmerman, judging him by the denial of Hon. C. C. Baker, is about the right material to be used by the liquor league and saloonkeepers of East Liverpool. It requires a brainy man, however, to make what the sporting element terms a successful liar, and the liquor league, while they secured a fellow who could invent Munchausen yarns with celerity, unfortunately for them got hold of one who talked altogether too much for his employers' interests, and left a trail as broad as that of a grizzly bear; hence his undoing and the discomfiture of the unprincipled men who engaged him. No man who knows Hon. C. C. Baker will for a moment doubt his word, and Hon. C. C. Baker brands M. K. Zimmerman as absolutely lacking in truth telling characteristics.

But here comes strong confirmatory proof of the fact that Zimmerman's word does not amount to a baubee, and the men who are backing him, knowing this, are just as contemptible and as guilty as is their pliant tool, and they should be prosecuted and made to pay for their illegal acts and for their attempt to injure better men by far than themselves, through the medium of foul misrepresentation.

Councilman Straley, of East Palestine, was quoted last night by a local sheet as being in favor of the return of the saloon to East Palestine, and stating that there is just as much liquor sold in that town as there was when the licensed saloon prevailed there. Councilman Straley said to the manager of the News Review:

"That fellow is simply a dirty blackguard, and he must be in the employ of my enemies. There is not an iota of truth in the statement respecting me. He should be punished for his dirty work. It makes me very angry to be thus maligned and I'll take pleasure in telling the sneaking rascal some plain truths when I again inspect his ugly mug. I am warmly in favor of prohibition and against the saloon, and our busy little town has never before been so prosperous as it is at the present time. The saloon gang will never again get control of East Palestine. I know Deputy Sheriff Eph Smith, and I believe that man Zimmerman has lied about him as he has lied about me."

Mr. C. A. Lentz, banker at East Palestine, brands Zimmerman's statements, as appearing in a local paper last night, as absolute misrepresentations. He informs the News Review that he did not say a word to Zimmerman respecting heavy deposits in the bank on the part of the proprietors of the three speakeasies, as that would have been unbusinesslike and unprofessional. He did state to the fellow that he—Lentz—had been in East Palestine for five years, and that East Palestine is very prosperous in every particular under the present prohibitory rule; more so, as per the evidence of old residents, than ever before known in its history.

Mr. John Curry, also quoted in last night's local sheet, says:

"Every word that Zimmerman quoted as coming from me, is simply a plain, unvarnished falsehood."

Deputy Sheriff Eph. Smith, of East Palestine, states that Zimmerman grossly misquoted him, and that the article as appearing in last night's local paper has scarcely a grain of truth in it.

Hon. C. P. Rothwell states that East Palestine is flourishing as never before; that the councilmen and other officials were elected on a square prohibition issue; that business is all O. K. under the present regime; that property valuation has increased wonderfully during the last five years. In a nutshell, that East Palestine, "dry," is a blessed and prosperous town, and that the "wets" will never again gain possession.

In the light of these statements, good citizens of East Liverpool, believers in fair play, can you wonder that clean and honorable men are disgusted at the saloonists and their counselors. You know that the saloon is an unmitigated curse to this city, from every standpoint, and all the lies the liquor element can concoct will only assist in hurrying them to their merited doom. In this special battle, the devil seems to have deserted his own, as they have made awful breaks and blunders and have been detected. Minerva, East Palestine and Columbiana have been relieved of the curse of the saloon and are prospering mightily. God grant that East Liverpool may order the saloons from her borders.

A SALOONIST.

He Openly Threatens a Prominent Man and Vows to Boycott Him.

He is a saloonist, and a very bad one, judging by his threats. He accosted a prominent business man in this city yesterday, and demanded to know how the business man stood in the coming battle—"wet" or "dry." When reply was made "dry" the saloonist resorted to hot threats, asserting that they would see to it that business affairs in the "dry" voter's line would materially decrease. The "dry" voter is a quiet but a courageous man, and he simply expressed his contempt for the fellow and his backers.

Lovers of fair play in East Liverpool, will you permit such a class of men as this saloonist represents to bulldoze you or bulldoze our business men. Men who make such threats are cowardly poltroons, and they cannot injure any man's business.

These same tactics were employed with Emil Gameter, a prominent grocer, of Akron, O., and the true man said:

"My groceries are for sale—not my principles."

And his grocery trade did not suffer an iota. Temperance men are learning the lesson that it pays them to stand by one another, in business as well as elsewhere.

PROHIBITION OF LIQUOR TRAFFIC

Does Not Assail the Personal Liberty of Any Person Wrote Judge Agnew.

HE SPEAKS OF DRUNKENNESS

Asks Some Questions and Calls Attention to the Ruin the Saloon Has Caused.

WHAT LIBERTY HAS SALOONIST

EditorNews Review—A few years since, during the amendment campaign in Pennsylvania, the venerable Judge Agnew, of Beaver, wrote a series of articles in favor of prohibition which were published in the Pittsburgh Commercial Gazette. One of these was on personal liberty and the rights of society. The republishing of this article, which he so vividly depicts as the inevitable fruit of the liquor traffic, may be helpful in leading some to see that in closing up the saloons true personal rights are protected rather than assailed.

J. C. T.

The right of society to prohibit the manufacture and sale of liquors is often assailed as an attack upon personal liberty. This is a mistake. No one claims the right to compel temperance by law. What a man may drink is for his conscience. The question is between him and his God. But drunkenness is a different matter and affects society.

Put drunkenness before your eyes. See the victim reeling from the bar, perhaps pushed into the street, fallen into the gutter, staggering away to accident, falling into pits, lying on the railroad track, and in a moment a mass of torn flesh and crushed bones—death.

Look at him in his family—wife and children fleeing before his brutal rage, the knife or pistol in his hand, then the wife of his bosom bleeding, dying at his feet. Again see him on a bed of sickness fighting the devils of the brain, mania, delirium, death.

Look at its public aspect, not confined by town or county lines, but spreading over the whole state. What a scene of devastation and ruin, which despoils labor, glutts prisons and hospitals, engulfs taxes, impoverishes families, breaks up homes, sends the occupants to almshouses, and carries thousands to untimely graves.

It violates the very constitution of the state, destroying the God-given rights of men.

Does it not destroy liberty? Answer, courts of justice, prisons and asylums.

Does it not destroy property? The destruction has no measure, but the wages of labor, the earnings of industry, the savings of economy, and the inheritance of wealth, all, all engulfed in the drunkard's ruin.

Does it not destroy happiness? Who can tell the woe, the sorrow, the pain, the broken hearts despoiled by drink?

Reputation? Who can return it to the victim of folly, vice and crime? Lost in the whirlpool of drink.

Drunkenness is therefore a great public wrong, involving life, health, prosperity, peace, property, morals and the general welfare. What is its corrective? The police power, recognized by the supreme court of the United States. Said Justice McLean: "The acknowledged police power of a state extends often to the destruction of property. A nuisance may be abated, everything prejudicial to the health and morals of a city may be removed."

Said Chief Justice Taney: "If a state deems the retail traffic in ardent spirits injurious to its citizens, and calculated to produce idleness, vice

HON. C. C. BAKER SPEAKS OUT

M. K. Zimmerman Created the Impression That He Represented the News Review.

A PECULIAR PIECE OF WORK

Hon. C. C. Baker, at present the president of the board of education at Alliance, Ohio, is a personal friend and comrade of the manager of the News Review. When we read the remarks attributed to him last night, as they appeared in a local paper in this town, under the head of "communication," we at once pronounced them false, knowing C. C. Baker as we do, and determined to interview the gentleman at his home at Alliance. We did so this morning, through a proper medium, and received the following reply, after reading the article to him which appeared in the local paper above mentioned:

"There is not a word of truth in the paragraph quoted. M. K. Zimmerman called on me on Monday last and attempted to interview me. I asked him how you were and as to the stand you were taking on the battle of saloon or no saloon. He stated that you were on the side of local option and left me under the impression that he was here in your interest and that he was still connected with your paper, and I did not know that you had ceased to employ him. I told Mr. Zimmerman that I was not here at the time that local option held sway, that I knew nothing about the matter from personal knowledge and that I did not desire to be quoted. I further told Mr. Zimmerman that there were plenty of old residents here whom he could interview respecting the matter, men who knew all about it; but he intimated that his time was limited and that he could not interview many people. Let me reiterate my statement:

"The article which appeared in the paper you mention, and which is quoted as being my experience, is a plain LIE, manufactured from the whole cloth.

"Respectfully,

"C. C. BAKER.

In the light of this prompt and unequivocal branding of the lie against Hon. C. C. Baker, have we not the right to say that the liquor league and their miserable tools will resort to any and every means, honorable or dishonorable, for the accomplishment of their vile and unholy purposes?

This lie is a shameful and outrageous one, calculated to seriously injure Hon. C. C. Baker, and the man or men who concocted it should be made pay a heavy penalty. The proper place for creatures who resort to such infamy and trickery is behind prison bars. This act on their part is a fair sample of their method of procedure everywhere. The saloon is and always has been a criminal maker, and the men who manufacture criminals will themselves become criminals on the slightest pretext, when their criminal action will best accomplish their foul and unholy purpose, and when they believe that they stand an even chance of escaping punishment at the hands of an outraged law.

MINERVA.

Rev. Gorrell Speaks of the Splendid Prosperity of That City.

Rev. Gorrell, pastor of the Christian church, was seen this morning and made the following statement:

"Having lived in Minerva for over three years I believe I am in a position to know what I am talking about. I arrived in Minerva just after the vote had been taken resulting in the closing of the saloons. The saloon people were selling off their stock in hand and had reduced the price of beer to two glasses for five cents, and that day the streets of Minerva looked like hog slops—men in a beastly state of intoxication could be seen on every hand.

"Upon being denied to do business in Minerva, the saloon men went over into Brown township, Carroll county, and into Paris township, Stark county, just on the outskirts, and started the lowest kind of 'joints,' and while the drinking and carousing continued at these places the town was very orderly.

"In 1890 the saloons were voted out of Brown township by the good people of that community, and in 1895 the same action was taken in Paris township, on the opposite side of the town. My honest belief is that the direct result of this is that Minerva has today two banks, where formerly there was but one, two mills instead of one; the taxes have not increased, have their own water and electric lighting system, street paving better and more of it than East Liverpool can boast of, no paupers within the city limits, and drunkenness and lawlessness in the street is a thing unknown. This is a plain statement of the facts and anyone saying to the contrary falsifies.

SALOONKEEPERS ARE VERY LOW

The Cowardly Creatures Can Find
Nothing Too Mean For Them To Do.

WE BID THEM OPEN DEFIANCE

It has come to my knowledge, from reliable authority, that one prominent saloonist of East Liverpool has recently said:

We treated the threat with the contempt it so richly deserved. We have nothing but pity for such poor, base creatures as this speech portrays.

But now comes the story that the liquor league and saloonists will try to hurt the dry, or anti-saloon movement through a personal attack on my character and record as a soldier. Hence this article. I didn't care a baubee for their attacks on me, as I simply despise creatures who will resort to such tactics, and term them a disgrace and a blot on our common manhood. But I do care when they aim to hurt the anti-saloon movement through me; a movement which I believe is made sacred by the Master's blessing; a movement desiring to save your sons and husbands from a drunkard's fate and a drunkard's hell. Read this:

"We will spring a story on Palmer when it is too late for him to reply, and thus secure votes for our side by making the people disgusted with a cause which has such a cowardly party connected with it. We will assert that Sergeant Palmer was dishonorably discharged from the Tenth regiment, at Manila, by Colonel Hawkins, on the charge of cowardice and drunkenness."

Citizens of East Liverpool, do you know of any other business on the face of this fair earth which will deal in such devilish work as these saloonists delight in. Witness their infamous lie against my friend and comrade, the Hon. C. C. Baker, of Alliance, Ohio, the miserable tool they made use of openly boasting, in the presence of reliable witnesses, that he receives $20 a week and expenses for doing their dirty work; and the fellow has lied in the same manner against other men he quoted, and we can prove it.

The poor, trashy, cowardly, mongrel crew intended to reach after Sergeant Palmer and brand him as a coward and a drunkard. This article will take the wind out of their sails and extract the venom from their serpentine fangs; but they are just as guilty as if they had made use of their hellish plot.

And now, for the benefit of clean men, men who avoid moral lepers and

cowardly saloonists, and not in a spirit of boastfulness or foolish egotism, we make the following statement:

"I, Sergeant Harry Palmer, late color bearer of the dear old Tenth regiment, Pa. infantry, U. S. volunteers, have in my possession, ready to exhibit to you, good citizens; first—an honorable discharge from the great civil war, after three years and seven months of service, as a high private. Second, an honorable discharge, by the secretary of war, from the Tenth regiment, at Manila, with warm words of commendation inscribed on the back thereof by the pen of my gallant comrade, Colonel A. L. Hawkins, who has answered the last Roll Call, in a camp where there are no saloons. Third, a medal of honor for service in the Philippines, on which medal is inscribed "for heroic service." Fourth, a recommendation to Governor Hastings, urging the governor to appoint Sergeant Harry Palmer to a commission, and signed by Colonel A. L. Hawkins, he using such flattering words and phrases as I will not make use of here.

All this, good and clean citizens, for the sake of the movement against the saloon, as I despise a boaster.

IT DON'T PAY.

The Only One it Pays is the Saloon Keeper and Liquor Dealers.

It don't pay to hang one citizen because another citizen sells him liquor.

It don't pay to have one citizen in the penitentiary, or county jail because another citizen sells him liquor.

It don't pay to have one citizen in the asylum for the insane or idiotic because another citizen sold him liquor.

It don't pay to have 50 workmen clothed in poor and ragged clothing to have one saloon keeper dressed in fine apparel and flush with money.

It don't pay to have our smart, active, intelligent boys transformed into criminals to enable the saloonist to lead an easy life by selling them liquor.

It don't pay to have our workingmen and their families live on poor and insufficient food in order that the saloon keeper and his family may live on the fat of the land.

It don't pay to have multitudes of homes blasted, ruined, defiled and turned into a hell of discord and misery in order that one wholesale dealer may amass a large fortune.

It don't pay for the citizens of East Liverpool to give the saloonist for a tax of $350 a year, one-half of which goes into our city treasury, the permission to engage in a business that demoralizes society, impoverishes many homes and robs the legitimate business of the city of more than 20 times the tax it pays.

It don't pay to permit that which is wrong for any price it may pay.

A WHIFF FROM HELL.

This is the Class of Men You Desire to Run Saloons—They Know Their Business.

From a gentleman who was present at a meeting of the State Liquor league in Worthwein's hall, Columbus, O., a few years ago, we have received what he wrote in his note book from the utterances of one of the delegates at that meeting.

After having discussed matters in the interest of the saloon business and its successes, he wound up with the following statement:

"It will appear from these facts, gentlemen, that the success of our business is dependent largely upon the creation of appetite for drink. Men who drink liquor, like others, will die, and if there is no appetite created, our counters will be empty, as will be our coffers. Our children will go hungry, or we must change our business to that of some other more remunerative.

"The open field for the creation of this appetite is among the boys. After men have grown and their habits are formed they rarely ever change in this regard. It will be needful, therefore, that missionary work be done among the boys, and I make the suggestion, gentlemen, that nickels expended in treats to the boys now, will return in dollars to your tills after the appetite has been formed. Above all things, create appetite!"

The gentleman is a state officer of Ohio, well known to the officers of the Anti-Liquor league. His name is held for good and sufficient reasons.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE CITY

FRIDAY, JULY 20, 1900.

OCCUPIED.

One hundred saloons went out of business in Atlanta, Georgia, by order of the people. The buildings were occupied in short order by legitimate and honorable business ventures.

TAXATION.

The clean and sober citizens are compelled to pay heavy taxes on account of the existence of the saloon and criminals manufactured by the saloon. Forbearance has ceased to be a virtue. The saloon must go. It is an outrage on civilization and decency.

GOD'S SOLDIERS.

They are to be found battling on the side of the right and the true on every occasion. God's soldiers are always banded against evil; the saloon is a glaring, awful, cold-blooded, calculating evil; hence, God's soldiers are always opposed to the saloon and liquor traffic. There is no neutral ground in this battle; you must be for or against the Master as He has so declared: "Ye cannot serve God and mammon." The anti-saloon man pleads with you in the name of God and our common humanity. The saloonist and his backers and apologists plead with you in the name of the devil and of gold. Which side will you take, that of God or of mammon?

ZIMMERMAN'S OATH.

Those who know M. K. Zimmerman intimately and who also know Hon. C. C. Baker intimately, will take their choice as to whom they will believe. Mr. Baker pronounces the article which appeared in a local sheet on last Monday, quoted as coming from his lips, as a foul falsehood, a lie manufactured from the whole cloth. We personally prefer to believe Comrade Baker, and we know him intimately. We also know M. K. Zimmerman intimately.

Later—Since Councilman Straley, of East Palestine, brands Zimmerman as a flagrant falsifier, and Banker C. A. Lentz, of the same place, does the same, and states that Zimmerman grossly misrepresented him, the oath of M. K. Zimmerman has a peculiar mystery surrounding it. Mr. Straley and Mr. Lentz state that East Palestine was never in better financial condition, and Councilman Straley laughs at Zimmerman's funny story about East Palestine voting against prohibition.

Later—Mr. John Curry and Deputy Sheriff Eph. Smith, both residents of East Palestine, and quoted in last night's local sheet by Zimmerman, informs the manager of the News Review that the fellow lied about them all the way through. Comment is unnecessary.

W. B. Wheeler, state counsel for the anti-saloon league, who took such a prominent part in the battle in the legislature over the famous Clark bill, will speak at the First Presbyterian church tonight. Don't fail to hear him. He will shoot some startling fire rockets into the camp of the saloonists and convince you that their statements are untenable and best classed as misty fabrications.

SEVERAL INDICTMENTS.

Saloon Keepers Want Plenty and Don't Care How Their Victims Live.

Say, people of our grand republic, the liquor interests of this country demand our attention. A question of vital importance to the brewers and saloon keepers must be considered. They have spent millions of dollars in establishing and operating breweries, building store houses and erecting and furnishing saloons like gilded palaces and providing these with all kinds of amusement and entertainments, which will appeal to the appetites of the youth. In fact they have done and are doing everything under the sun to entice a sufficient number of us to go and consume the product of their breweries.

We cannot comprehend the enormous sums they have expended and are compelled to expend to keep up their business. Nor are we able to comprehend the enormous output of their mills, which must be drunk, or they will fail. Gentlemen, there is only one way to solve this problem. This product must be consumed, and as they are increasing the amount of the product the number of consumers must be increased and those consuming must consume more. Now, remember, none of them are suffering for the necessities of life. Few if any of their children cry for bread and suffer because of the cold. None of their wives have to wash for a living. None of their families suffer the pain and misery and woe that the families of many of the consumers suffer. No, but they live well. Many of them live in palatial houses and have their men servants and maid servants and travel during the summer, and in fact have all the conveniences and pleasures earth can afford. But is is a question of money with them and nothing else must interfere, not even the laws of their fellow men, and they always do a cash business.

They cannot care if a husband goes home drunk and beats his wife and children. They cannot care if he sells the furniture of the home and shoes and clothes of the children, they must have the money. They cannot care if the children do go half-starved, half-naked and half-frozen. They cannot care if the babe cries itself to sleep trying to feed from the half-starved mother's breast. They cannot care if the mother has to support the family at the wash tub and the father steals part of her hard earned money, they must have it and have their liquor consumed. They cannot care if the husband sells that which kind and sympathetic friends have given the wife and children and throws the money over to them. They cannot care if the husband pleads with the merchant to have pity upon his wife and family and then goes and trades the gift for the product of their mills. They can't care if the merchant and grocer and butcher do trust him, while he does a cash business with the saloon keeper. This liquor they must have consumed and money they must have.

They cannot care if even the wife becomes a consumer and forsakes the fruit of her own body. They cannot care if the mother of the home is enticed away and should come to love the haunts of vice more than the child to which she gave birth. They cannot care if the home is destroyed and in its place is misery and woe; yet, a hell on earth. They must have money, and even that which would furnish medicine for the dying wife or the little babe as it calls for food and is passing away, preyed upon by the awful disease inherited. Oh, but that we might let them have this medicine, if only to enable them to die easier; but no, money must flow into the tills of those who claim our support.

They cannot care if the son and brother is allured into the dens of iniquity, breaking the mother's heart, she who nestled him in her bosom in his innocence. They cannot care if he reels in the street and wallows in the mire. They cannot care if he loses friends, character, reputation, position and even murders his friends and takes his own life. They cannot care if the daughter and sister, the very pride of the home in the bloom of purity, is allured into dens fitted for destruction of body and soul—a life of most degrading shame—a life which beggars description, for it is spent among the hissing demons of hell, where she will die by her own hand to end her earthly misery, her body buried in a pauper's grave if buried at all.

In spite of all this, even multiplied a thousand fold, they call upon us for support, they plead with us to let them live.

The old are dying, the young we must teach to become consumers.

Wives have you a husband to give to the cause; husbands have you a wife to give?

Fathers and mothers have you a son or daughter you can let them have? They are dependent upon us. Shall we heed their cry or the cry of the widow and fatherless?

SAME OLD CHESTNUT.

The Writer Who Says Prohibition Does Not Prohibit in Kansas Had Better Investigate.

Editor News Review—In a certain paper in this city some one who does not sign his name brings out the old chestnut that prohibition does not prohibit in Kansas. For his edification I want to recommend the reading of an article published in the Chicago Record some time ago. It was written by William E. Curtis, who made a special investigation of the working of the prohibitory law in Kansas. He said:

"Prohibition is not a dead letter, nor a failure by any means, and I am told by almost everybody I ask that any proposition to repeal the law would be defeated by an overwhelming vote."

If the writer in our local paper wants to prove to the people of East Liverpool that the Kansas prohibitory law is a failure would it not be well for him, or some of his friends to go there and try the experiment of opening a saloon. That he may not be ignorant of what will happen, however, let me inform him of a habit they have out there. About the first of last April the Kansas supreme court announced a decision affirming the sentences passed upon half a dozen violators of the prohibitory law in Iola and Humboldt by Judge Stillwell. Joseph Langley and Charles Groth had to go to the Allen county jail for 600 days each, pay fines of $1,000 and give bonds in the sum of $500 each to guarantee their good behavior for two years thereafter. John Whittick went to jail. One Nagley had to pay $700 and be confined 315 days. Frank Nimerick had to pay $600 and be confined 270 days. D. Whittick had to spend 120 days in jail and pay $400.

There are several men in this city, of whom the writer is one, who personally know something of the success of prohibition in Kansas. I visited a friend in Topeka for several days. Having heard through our liquor friends in Ohio that whisky was sold freely in that city, I sought to find it, but in vain. One evening I overheard a conversation between two men, some of whose words would not be appropriate for publication. One of them said it was well nigh impossible to get a drink in Topeka; the other replied that it was easier to go to Kansas City, 50 miles away, and get it. These men did not know that anyone heard what they said. After a thorough investigation I came away with the certain knowledge that prohibition does prohibit in Topeka. But while there I remembered the other charge of the liquor people (a direct contradiction of the one I have referred to), namely that "prohibition has killed Topeka." My friend took me in his carriage and drove me to a fine street in the northern part of the city. There he stopped and pointed to a vast number of splendid homes. He said that in that section no house was allowed to be built that cost under a certain sum. Finally he asked: "Crawford, how many of those elegant houses stood there when I came to this city about two and a half years ago?" I said: "I do not know." He replied: "Just three; Knox's yonder, and two others." He then drove out by the capitol to a high point in the western part of the city. There he stopped and pointed out a still larger number of new homes. He said: "Crawford, you see all those houses yonder are new. How many of them do you suppose were standing there when I came to Topeka two and a half years ago? None. You have heard in Ohio that prohibition was killing Topeka. I have shown you how it is killing it. We can stand that kind of killing."

Mr. Editor, prohibition does kill a municipality from a saloonist's standpoint, but not from the standpoint of the people's interest.

Read What the Business Men and Manufacturers In
the No Saloon Town of Columbiana Say
About Local Option.

DRUNKEN BRAWLS ARE UNKNOWN

East Palestine Citizens Also Voice the Same Sentiment and Are Well Pleased With a Dry Town.

A STATEMENT FROM BOTH MUNICIPALITIES.

The following statements from the citizens of Colum-biana and East Palestine speak volumes in favor of local option:

For seven years prior to the spring
of '96 local option prevailed in Colum-biana. About this date the ordinance
was repealed and for three years open
saloons flourished. In the spring of '99
the saloons were again closed and remain so at this time. The people of the town, therefore, have had a good
opportunity to study the pros and cons
of the two systems, and ought to be able to speak intelligently concerning
the comparative benefits and disadvantages.

While we regret to acknowledge that
our toppers and tipplers secure liquor,
either by visiting neighboring towns or
having it smuggled to them here, we also gladly recognize what we believe
to be great advantages derived from local option.

In the way of public improvement,
our town is surpassing some others of
the same class, which depend for their development, to a considerable extent,
upon the saloon revenue. We have no
occasion to increase the rate of taxation to meet our expenses as compared with the years of saloon domination.

The managers of our manufacturing
plants plainly declare that their employes are more reliable, lose fewer
days and do better work under local option. Some of our grocery men testify to better patronage and more prompt settlements. A drunken man
is a rare sight and a street brawl unknown. Even during days of unusual crowds the best conduct prevails and
that without the presence of the marshal.

This phase of our municipal life is constantly attracting the attention and awakening complimentary remarks
from visitors.

These, to say nothing of the moral
advantages, are so marked as contrasted with the opposite, which we
have experienced from open saloons,
that we willingly subscribe our names
in recognition of their truthfulness and
benefits.

EAST PALESTINE.

East Palestine, O., July 17, 1900.
To Whom it May Concern:

We, the undersigned residents of East Palestine, Ohio, for the purpose
of eliminating from the minds of persons who have formed a false idea as
to the losing of business within our village on account of having a local option ordinance, wish to say that we
not only resided within this village
prior to the passage of said ordinance
but have resided here during all of the time since, and can truthfully say, and
that without fear of successful contradiction, that at no period within the history of our village have the business men secured a more lucrative
trade than they have within the last five years. To the best of our knowledge no business has left the town and
gone to another on account of there
being no saloons within our borders,
statements of persons to the contrary
notwithstanding.

We wish to say further in support of
a prohibitory ordinance that young people are not compelled to come in
to contact with the saloon element
that congregates around them; that
a lady can walk around the streets
and not be insulted with talk that eme-nates from the saloon; that in every way from a moral standpoint our village has bettered its condition on account of the action of our council in the passage of our prohibitory ordinance.

MINERVA.

This Glorious Stark County Town
Makes Liquor Advocates
Weary.

We have personally visited Minerva
and made minute investigation of its commercial and private life as a "dry"
town. It is a living, breathing, active witness again the un-American saloon.
It is one of the best business towns
in Ohio. The merchants do a good and a safe business. The streets are kept in first-class condition. The sidewalks are better than those of East Liverpool. There is no brawling and
fighting and cursing upon the thoroughfares. It is a model town. The stuff which has been appearing in a local sheet, at so much per line, condemns Minerva in the same manner
as it does other dry towns, and on
about the same manufactured and lying testimony, secured and made up
by a man who has so far forgot his
manhood as to become a tool in the hands of the liquor league and saloon
men. We have been close on this fellow's trail, and can prove, by indis-
putable authority, that his statements
are a mass of falsehood. The following from the Minerva News Kodak, a
live, clean paper, published in a live,
clean town, by a live, clean, fearless
man, speaks volumes in favor of the
"dry" town:

"We venture the assertion that
there is four times more cash business
to the volume of business done in Mi-
nerva than in any "wet" town around.
And it is equally as evident that as much as twice the volume of legiti-mate business is done here as in any
"wet" town of like size. One of our prominent merchants remarked Saturday that he had not lost a dollar
in bad accounts the past year.—Miner-
va News Kodak, May 28."

This is the uniform testimony that comes to us from the "dry" towns of the state. It is not an infrequent
thing that town officers and prominent citizens, who have opposed making
towns "dry" for business reasons confess to us and our friends that they were mistaken, and give in their adherence to the prohibition program.
Of all the ineffable rot that was ever
faked out by saloon falsifiers, the most
silly and baseless is that saloons help
the legitimate business of any place.

TO THE VOTERS.

Men Connected With the Liquor
League Making False Representations.

Men were going about this city yesterday, claiming to be identified with
the executive committee of the anti-
saloon league, asking citizen voters
as to how they would vote on Saturday next. The fellows were frauds,
evidently in the employ of the liquor
league, as there were no canvassers
out for the anti-saloon league yesterday; and when they were out, they
had absolute instructions to ask no
such questions, as such a method
would be considered an impertinence
by right thinking men, men of principle and honor.

BUILD HOMES NOT SALOONS

Fallacy of Liquor Dealers Argument In Regard to Speakeasies Is Shown.

IF LAW CAN BE EVADED

And Speakeasies Run No Man Will Pay Dow Tax to Run an Open Saloon.

PROSPEROUS PROHIBITION CITIES

Editor News Review—I want to say a word about those speakeasies that a trembling contemporary sees rising like a specter out of the ashes of the vanquished saloon.

Let this pious sheet be calm. A speakeasy can exist where there are open saloons as well as where there are no saloons. If a man can evade the law and run a speakeasy he will not pay a Dow tax.

Our thirsty friends, our moral monitors thoughtlessly impale themselves on their own arguments. They argue thus:

First—Where there are no saloons there will be more liquor drank than where there are saloons.

Second—Driving out the saloon we drive out the business of the town, for it will go where liquor can be had. Both of these cannot be correct. The two propositions kill each other.

Is more liquor drank where there is no saloon? Who is working for the saloon? The liquor dealer? No. Manufacturers and wholesalers are known to spend thousands of dollars to maintain the saloon in a town. What fools they must be. If your competitor would go away from home far enough his eyes would witness the benefits to Minerva and East Palestine in comparison with saloon ridden towns.

Minerva with no saloons and a much less population buys and sells more goods than Carrollton with its saloons, though it is a county seat. Let us ask ourselves what we are; anyway. Are we men or pigs?

If pigs, then let us slob and swill and slobber and swear and tumble into the gutter. If men, then let us act like men. I have never seen a town where the saloon was banished that not only were business conditions improved, but there was an improvement of all that was worthy of the best mankind. Homes were more appreciated and beautified. Education, the library, art and music were more patronized. The churches, the hospital and other religious and charitable institutions were more flourishing. East Liverpool and Wellsville spends enough every year for liquor to build and equip as fine a hospital as there is in the state.

Let us get our minds on something higher than a beer mug. Let us cultivate a more rational taste than the taste for debauchery and we will be glad to strike from ourselves the bondage of this death.

The proof of the pudding is the eating. Some of these poor fellows who never saw a town without a saloon think a town could not exist without saloons. Not so. Take for instance Washington, Pa.

For 35 years it has had no saloon. Has it diminished? Has it died out? Fifteen years ago it had 6,000 population. This year's census finds it with 21,000.

Look at its long avenues of fine, beautiful homes; look at its fine public buildings and city improvements. See its splendid school facilities and its prosperous churches and its refined and intelligent population. Is it a dead business town? Though only 30 miles from the large cities of Wheeling and Pittsburg, see its great stores and its large number of prosperous banking houses. During the hard times, when some towns were establishing soup houses and sending out wagons to beg from the farmers, Washington had no hard times.

The sound of the builders' hammer was heard on all sides, and artisans and tradesmen were prosperous and happy.

Why carpenters and plasterers and painters there are able to build themselves homes costing $8,000 to $10,000.

Let us close up these drinking holes. Let us build our homes and not the saloon. Every interest of decency favors no saloon. Appetite and avarice alone clamor for the saloon.

Let us be men, and let not appetite enslave us, nor avarice beguile us. We have tried the saloon long enough, let us try something better.

CIVES.

HERE YOU ARE?

Catch On, Workingmen and Toilers—This Knocks the Licensed Saloon Dizzy.

Give yourselves a fair show in the race of life, men of East Liverpool. Don't let the saloonists make a monkey of you. They rob you and then laugh at you. Do the laughing for yourself, and let the wife and the babies have the money you throw away in the saloon. Let the saloonist, distiller and brewer make an honest and honorable living, the same as you do, and don't you build houses for him at your expense and at the expense and sorrow of your wife and little ones. Read the following and see the difference in a city under saloon rule and after the saloon was driven out:

"The city of Cambridge, Mass., celebrated on May 1 its 10 years freedom from the liquor traffic. There were children's festivals and public meetings, and in all religious services held a prominent place. A writer in the New York Independent gives the following facts as to the results of the city's policy: 'For 10 years, up to 1886, Cambridge was under license, half of the time under general law and half of the time under local option. Here is a chance to compare 10 years of license with 10 years of no license. Let us see what the figures are: From 1876 to 1886 the valuation of Cambridge dropped from $62,000,000 in round numbers to $59,000,000. In the next 10 years it rose to $83,000,000. Here is a loss of $3,000,000 in the license decade, and a gain of $24,000,000 in the no-license decade. If this fact stood alone it would be very significant; but it does not stand alone. In the 10 license years the average annual gain in population was 1,182; in the 10 no-license years it has been 2,195. In the first decade there were 151 new houses built annually; the average the second decade has been 332. The city gets annually in taxes on the increased valuation of the city under no-license three or four times as much as it would get from license fees, if it called the saloon back.'

"Here are further results as to saving bank deposits: 'During the 10 years of license the Cambridge savings bank made a net gain of $155,333 each year in deposits. During the 10 no-license years the annual net gain has been $366,654. This gain, as an analysis of the returns shows, has been chiefly in small deposits of $50 or less. In East Cambridge, the principal manufacturing section of the city, the deposits last year were four times as large as in the last year of license.'

MINISTER CONGER MAY BE SAFE.

Special to the News Review.

Washington, July 20.—A message from Minister Conger says: "In British legation under continued shot and shell from Chinese troops. Quick relief only can prevent general massacre." The message was not dated, but is understood to have been sent from Peking on the 18th.

THE CABLEGRAMS THOUGHT GENUINE.

Special to the News Review.

Washington, July 20.—The Conger dispatch was in the state department cipher, therefore considered to be genuine. It came through the Chinese foreign office. Peking cabinet council is in session.

W. B. Wheeler, state counsel for the anti-saloon league, who took such a prominent part in the battle in the legislature over the famous Clark bill, will speak at the First Presbyterian church tonight. Don't fail to hear him. He will shoot some startling fire rockets into the camp of the saloonists and convince you that their statements are untenable and best classed as misty fabrications.

NOT A SPONTANEOUS SUCCESS The $11.00 Suit Sale--No Wild Scence of Scramble.

But gradually--by slow process--it dawned upon men folks that an unprecedented clothing opportunity had presented itself.

The first score of buyers did more to popularize the sale than did newspaper publicity. They because animated--walking--talking advertisements.

Each day's business surpassed the day's previous, until now the sale is at it's height, and men folks of all conditions are flocking for these truly greatest of all suit values.

It is not a freak, or a sudden whim, but a well planned, policy, copied from some of the World's greatest and most successful stores, that tempts us to close out the season's leavings at so much below actual cost of production.

You must believe the evidence of your own eyes, and you are invited to inspect, not to buy. Buying follows inspection without fail.
